WILSON THE WORLD'S PEACE HERO

The President's Policy as Seen Abroad—The Attitude of German-Americans Toward His Re-Election.

(By Herman Bernstein.)

New York, Oct. 29, 1916.

To the Editor of the New York Times:

We are more than fortunate that in this universal catastrophe we have at the head of this great nation a man who towers head and shoulders not only above our own statesmen, but also above the trained statesmen of Europe—a man with a great vision, with a colossal will power, with a burning passion for peace and righteousness, with a profound love for America and a boundless sympathy for all mankind.

We have a President whom only history in the coming generations will fully appreciate. For Woodrow Wilson is a new Lincoln, a Lincoln who has learned from Lincoln, who has brought to the best traditions of American presidents a genius for statesmanship and an extraordinary familiarity with the world outside of America, a powerful bond of sympathy with all mankind, a heart that feels deeply for the oppressed of all nations, a mind that sees far and sees clearly, and a conscience that guides him in all his acts.

The issues now are not the petty issues that are raised by petty politicians in order to dim the minds of the American people.

There is but one vital issue in this campaign. It is this: Do we want this great country to complete the work of the great constructive statesman who is building a greater America, a nobler America, a freer America, an America truly emancipated, or do we want to drift back and follow the blundering and strife and hatreds that are destroying Europe? Do we want to prepare for the adjustment that will assure lasting peace, or do we want our own homes, our own institutions, our own people hurled into the fires that are consuming the flower of nations abroad?

This is the gravest crisis in the world, and America must face the big problems in a large way. No American President has had such an opportunity for service and achievement, and no American statesman today could have risen to the opportunity as Woodrow Wilson has risen.

In the European situation he has succeeded in maintaining a dignified neutrality. This is better known in Europe than in America. I have traveled in the war zone, in the allied countries as well as in the Germanic, and have studied the temper of the people on this very question. I can state that while the people in England and France were perhaps displeased with the American policy because it was not as firm toward Germany as they wished, and while the people in Austria and Germany were irritated by the American policy because it was not as sharp and exacting toward the Allies as they desired, this feeling of dissatisfaction and irritation was due chiefly to the fact that the people in all the countries at war are poorly informed through the censored press, and are acquainted with only one side of the situation, through prejudiced and colored sources.

The men at the helm of the belligerent countries, even though they will not say so publicly, know that President Wilson's policy toward the warring nations is one of absolute fairness and justice to all—a policy inspired by a passionate desire to serve all mankind, naturally serving America first.

Even in Germany, where President Wilson has achieved such a great triumph in the submarine controversy, which was really at the same time a triumph for the more rational and pacific elements of the German nation, he has not forfeited his opportunity to act as the peace mediator.

During my two trips abroad I convinced myself that President Wilson was looked upon as the only man who would prove, at the proper time, an acceptable peace mediator to all warring nations.

This is true of the Allies as well as of Germany and Austria. It is certainly true of the sentiment in all the neutral countries. Pope Benedict XV., with whom I had the privilege of a private audience last year, expressed the same feelings on peace mediation.

A great deal is being said during these days of excitement on the German-American attitude toward President Wilson. In this connection, it will be interesting to American readers to learn what such a brilliant representative German publicist as Maximilian Harden, editor of Zukunft, said to me a year ago concerning the German-Americans, and what the intimate friend of the Kaiser and his former tutor, Professor Hans Delbruck, said to me at about the same time concerning President Wilson as the peace mediator.

Maximilian Harden said:

"The real cause of the differences between the Americans and the Germans has been the lack of knowledge of the facts concerning the attitude of those countries toward each other. There has been so much misinformation in Germany concerning America, and I dare say there has been as much distorted information in America about Germany, that it was extremely difficult for these nations to check the growing irritation, and serious consequences might have sprung from misinformation.

"My feeling concerning the German-Americans is this: If the Germans in America want to be so thoroughly German that they are displeased and openly discontented with America, they should have remained in Germany.

"There is no denying that the Germans in America constitute one of the best elements of the American people, and I know that most of them are patriotic Americans. It is quite natural that their sympathies should be on the side of their old home. It is human. But the German-Americans should employ in a crisis of this magnitude all the tact and good judgment at their command, and they ought to realize that the best way in which they can serve their old home is by showing that they are good Americans, by actually being and acting as good Americans today.

"If they have gone to America they must have come there to find something which they could not find in their old homes, and if they stay there they must have found there what they sought. They are guests in America. They have been welcome guests there before the war and they will be welcome after the war is ended, but they should be tactful."

Professor Delbruck said:

"I know that America is acting in accord with international law in the ammunition question. I know that legally, the United States is in the right.

"I believe that peace upon reasonable terms could be had within a very short time. I believe that President Wilson could be the peace mediator and practically bring about a speedy peace."

It is my belief that the campaign against President Wilson, as far as the German-Americans are concerned, is conducted by a very small group of agitators who do not really represent the great mass of Americans of German extraciton, and by Republican German-Americans who opposed President Wilson four years ago.

President Wilson's crowning achievement will be the service that he will render to bleeding mankind through peace mediation. His sane and brilliant statesmanship will be fully appreciated only after the war. President Wilson did not follow the easiest way in these days of war-madness. He chose the more difficult and more heroic road—that of peace. The peace President has served America best and most heroically by resisting the clamor of the hysterical chauvinists and the temptation and sham heroism of those who urged the plunging of America into the flames that are consuming the best manhood and womanhood and childhood of European countries.

When President Wilson is re-elected—and I have faith that the verdict of the American people will be an overwhelming indorsement of his achievements—he will write the greatest page in American history; he will lead the movement that will bring about an understanding among the nations of the world which will make it impossible for a few rulers and statesmen to give the sign "Thumbs down!" like Nero, hurling a continent with millions of human sacrifices into the arena of slaughter.

"Out of the multitude of war heroes, with their iron crosses and their legions of honor, will stand out the greatest and most glorious hero of them all, the hero of peace—Woodrow Wilson."

A PROVERB, A POEM AND A PREACHMENT.

Selected by B. G.

By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, and honor, and life.—Proverbs 22:4.

Be Not Anxious.

Never you worry, never you fret;
Flowers shall blossom everywhere yet;
Blue must the sky be under the grey,
Clouds will blow over another sweet day.
Never you worry, never you fret;
Spring hasn't flouted the old world yet.

Never you worry, never you fret;
Sorrow endureth, joy shall come yet;
Lo, the day faileth, night mounts the skies;
Walk in the starlight till the sun rise.
Never you worry, never you fret;
God isn't done with the old yet.

Never you worry, never you fret;
Green will the grass be on the graves yet;
Those your heart longs for draw near to you;
Keep yourself ready, keep yourself true.
Those you remember, can God forget?
The best hasn't happened to any one yet!

"Hath Chosen That Good Part"

Out yonder amid the desert dunes of the Soudan the white tents of the British army have been pitched in serried ranks about the central one a little longer than the rest, from which the Union Jack is flying. In front of the door of that tent a white handkerchief flutters from a stake stuck in the ground which the soldiers gathered about seem to watch with reverence and devotion.

What does it all mean? It means that "Chinese" Gordon, the general of the British forces in the Soudan, is alone with God in prayer and is not to be disturbed. It means that the hero of thirty battles, the man who had been baptised in the art of war at Crimea, who had been made a Mandarin by the Chinese, a Pasha by the Egyptians, a governor-general by the British, for his prowess and ability, that this man felt it necessary in the midst of war, with enemies all about him and duties pressing heavily upon him, daily to get alone with God and ask for His direction.

No man can be truly great, no woman can be truly gracious, in the highest meaning of that word, if they are not much alone with God. All of us who would learn aright must get away from the noise and the bustle, the stress and the strain of life and "in the secret of His presence" hear His Word and have His will revealed more fully unto us.

The choice between the "many things" and the "one thing needful" is the choice between the transitory and the abiding.

Ah, perplexed, busied and worried men and women of the world, in the midst of your great battle of life, when enemies are all about you, let the white flag fly at times from your tent door as you camp amid the wilderness of this world. Get alone! Get alone with God!

Important Case Tried in Craven County—Few Men at Camp Glenn Cape Lookout Project.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New Bern, N. C., Nov. 4.—After deliberating for almost the entire day, the jury in the case of E. B. Freeman vs. the Kinston Manufacturing Company, and others, in which the plaintiff was suing for forty thousand dollars which he claimed was due him as commission on a sale of timber land valued at $800,000, late yesterday afteroon returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, awarding him $7,500.

This case was taken up at the first of the week and had been in progress since that time. Freeman claimed to have brought about the sale of the land and declared that he thought forty thousand dollars was a fair commission on the deal. The jury decided that this amount was too much and gave him the sum mentioned above.

Few Men at Camp Glenn.

There are now but a few men down at Camp Glenn and that place has an almost deserted appearance, in fact it is so lonesome there, according to stories told by the men now staying at that point, that it is geeting on their nerves.

It is necessary to keep a few men down at the camp in order that the place may be policed against the invasions of any miscreants who might take it into their heads to molest some of the government property there.

Going Ahead With Work.

Visitors coming up to New Bern from Morehead City declare that, although no records are being broken, work on the great breakwater which is being erected over at Cape Lookout, is going ahead steadily and that the contractors are well pleased with the progress which is being made there.

Weather conditions are proving of great aid to the contractors just now and they are desrious of getting everything possible done before the stormy season sets in and their operations are hampered.

Money on Wilson.

While New Bern is not what might be termed a betting town, there are a number of sports here who take a shot with the long green occasionally, and a number of wagers nave been placed on the coming election.

Those Wilson supporters who are in the habit of betting and who have the necessary wherewithal, are not hesitating about putting it up while there are quite a few who are betting on Hughes.

Practically no odds are being given by either side, the majority of the bets being at even money.

Sure Pastor Will Accept.

Although Rev. Thomas Hubert, pastor of the First Baptist church of Douglass, Ga., has not yet accepted the call extended to him some days ago by the membership of the Tabernacle Baptist church, this city, the members feel sure that he will do this and believe that he will come to the local church some time during the month of December.

'Course any time's the time—but just along 'bout noon when shopping begins to get a little wearisome and bundles grow heavier—that's the time especially to say PEPSI-Cola.

And stars in Heaven! How it does drive thirst away? With its cooling "pepsy" tang, you just go right down to the bottom of that long, "ice-berry" glass and wish it were longer. Try it—now at any fount. Then you'll begin to tell your grocer to leave a case of two dozen bottles.

SAYS CIVILIZATION DEPENDS ON COPPER

And Must Have Part of the Metal in Form of Pennies.

New Yorkers Pay $17.45 a Year for Street Car Rides—City Authorities in Constant Battle Against Drug Habit.

New York, Nov. 4.—The extent to which New Yorkers depend upon the street cars, and how difficult it is for them to stay at home when there is any place else to go, is illustrated by recently published statistics of travel. Owing to the geographical peculiarities of Manhattan Island, only a small part of the million or more people who work in its limited area, are able to find living quarters within walking distance of their jobs.

The result is that in the last year there was an average of more than one fare for each week day paid by every man, woman and child in New York. There were 356 fares per capita turned in to the several transit companies, making an annual transportation tax of $17.45 per head. In ten years the average number of trips per capita has increased fifty-one, or practically one for each week in the year. If there could be obtained figures for the thousands who travel by bus lines, taxicabs and private vehicles, and for the thousands more, including policemen, firemen, mail carriers and traction employees, who pay no fares, the total would be increased materially. With the opening of the new subway now in course of construction a sharp increase will take place, for the people walk less and less as the new facilities increase. It will be only a few years before the annual per capita transportation tax will be $20. The growth of traffic on the street car systems has been more rapid than the growth of facilities.

Even though the number of the rich who are growing richer has been rapidly increasing during the area of prosperity, yet everybody must have pennies. While there may be bales of greenbacks and currency, and wagon loads of gold, still the money market is never evenly balanced when pennies run shy. Civilization depends upon copper, since otherwise the boy who sells papers would lose a large part of his patronage; and the gum machine would fail in performing its proper function in case the copper cent failed to lurk within the pockets of subway passengers. The shortage of pennies might have been expected, as there is always something running shy in New York. One week it is milk, and then the hens refuse to lay in proper quantities. Now the Treasury Department has gotten behind, with the result that Wall Street—and the other streets—haven't pennies enough to make change. The Philadelphia and San Francisco mints had to steam up and run twenty-four hours a day, and the Denver mint is operating on a sixteen hour schedule. The use of the copper coins has increased at an enormous rate, perhaps because there is an extra penny added on bread, the same thing has happened with the price of milk. Indeed, it is becoming quite the usual thing for prices to end in odd pennies. Perhaps it is not unreasonable to predict that the man who shines shoes will soon charge eleven cents; and hair cuts may go to twenty-seven cents a scalp. In view of the frequent strikes, even the subway and elevated railroads might consider raising their fares from a nickel to six cents.

The prevalence of the "drug habit" in New York has been brought to quite prominent notice by reason of a test case in a New York court, seeking to set aside the existing law with reference to the use of habit-forming drugs, on the claim that the law is unconstitutional. In questioning the legality of the act it was contended that it deprived persons of property without due process, the majority of convictions being based on police confiscations of the drugs. The justice before whome the case was tried, threw considerable light on the matter. He declared: "Within the last decade a situation has arisen with respect to habit-forming drugs which threatens to become a real menace to the peace of the community, and daily is sending many men and women to ruin." The court referred to the fact that has been established in criminal practice, that persons under the influence of cocaine, morphine, or heroin, lose all moral sense, and are without physical fear. Quite naturally they become a real peril to society.

The extent of the prevalence of the drug habit can hardly be measured, as the victims practice it with great secrecy. Nevertheless, it is so common that in New York it has been necessary to organize a special squad of police, which devotes all its attention to the drug users and sellers. Further than this, the municipal authorities have found it necessary to purchase and maintain a large farm colony, to which victims may be sent for treatment. The New York courts have declared that the attempts of the legislature of the state to eliminate and control the use of drugs for medicinal purposes is a proper exercise of police power. The trial judge commented: "In such a cosmopolitan population as now characterizes many of our greater cities, many complex problems present themselves from time to time in connection with the maintenance of order. The use of habit-forming drugs is one of these problem."

The Shakespeare Garden, in Central Park, has taken a strong hold on the affections and sentiment of New Yorkers, and its threatened destruction has raised a protest that the city authorities are likely to heed. Every flower named in the works of the illustrious Shakespeare is to be found in the little nondescript garden that clings to the rocks on the hillside, toward which tens of thousands of city dwellers wend their way in order that their hungry gaze may rest on the beautiful profusion of horticulture. Several local organizations, including the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, the Shakespearean Society and the Boy Scouts, have made an organized attempt to save the garden. It is a small affair, but remarkable because of its interesting situation, and further because of the care with which its flowery expanse has been planned and kept. The delight of the people who visit the garden in uncounted numbers goes straight to one's heart.

The latest innovation in the big municipal building of New York is designed to make it easier for the candidates who wish to stand before Hymen's altar. Heretofore the city building has provided only necessary facilities for obtaining a license. It is doubtful whether even these licenses would be considered necessary were it not for the fact that they furnish a revenue for the public treasury. Now the homeless lovers are enabled to not only secure their licenses, but the wedding ceremonies are to be had almost for the asking. The city has opened a marriage chapel, and while it may be missing in many of the niceties that people desire included in their marriage ceremony, still it has the advantage of being thoroughly cosmopolitan, and even the word "obey" has been taken out of the ceremony, and "cherish" substituted. When the prospective husband repeated the old form of service he promised to keep his bride in "health and sickness and adversity." The new New York ceremony adds the words "and prosperity." The chapel has been generously patronized. Twenty-three couples were married in a single day.

TO ASK PRESIDENT TO CALL NEUTRAL NATIONS

Substantial Movement Started to Secure Mediation.

Supplying New Yorkers With Their Morning Newspapers—"Old Doc Pease" and the "Smoke Law" Gossip From Gotham.

New York, Nov. 4.—Supposing that a dozen men, six on a side, had been fighting in an open square, until some were dead, others dying—and the rest of them bleeding and exhausted. Would it be impertinent if a big, respectable, disinterested citizen, should step from among the disgusted onlookers and say: "Here, fellows, cut this out; you are all nearly in, and if you are ready to use a little common sense, let's talk this thing over?"

In substance that is what a strong group of American citizens proposa. They have seized upon Lloyd George's expressive sentence, that "men have stood at the door of hell and marched into the furnace," as furnishing sufficient reason why the neutral nations should attempt to close that awful door in order that a few rulers might not continue to order them to march into the furnace.

The American Neutral Conference Committee, 70 Fifth avenue, New York, is composed of earnest men and women like Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent; Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post; Governor Edward F. Dunee, of Illinois; Governor Capper, of Kansas; Governor Ferris, of Michigan; Governor Yager, of Porto Rico; Read-Admiral Chadwick; Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver; John Hays Hammond, the famous mining engineer; Thomas Mott Osborne, of Sing Sing fame, and a hundred other prominent citizens from every walk of life. As neutrals, these people have proclaimed that their object is "to support our Government in any effort it may make towards a just and lasting peace." The specific object of the committee is: "To urge our government to call or co-operate in a conference of neutral nations which shall offer joint mediation to the belligerents by proposals calculated to form the basis of permanent peace."

The yarn about the man who angrily declared: "Here, two of you hold my coat; one man can hold me," may possibly be applied to Europe right now. The Neutral Conference Committee has received a copy of the peace petition which has been signed by 150,000 Britons; Germany, through official and unofficial utterances, has repeatedly signified its readiness to quit. In France there are organized movements to stop the war.

"A few war lords in the belligerent countries do not speak for the whole people," says Miss Rebecca Shelly, secretary of the committee, who asserts that "America, rich in war gold, stands by and raises no hand to check the collossal destruction." Miss Shelly adds: "The duty of the United States backed by the entire neutral world, is to attempt mediation on a basis which shall safeguard the just claims of the belligerents, and provide for international guarantees against future wars. We are exerting our energies just now in arranging a monster petition, which we want people everywhere to circulate, urging the United States government to act."

"Gets-It" Never Fails for Corns!

There's Nothing on Earth Like It For Corns and Calluses.

"Whenever you get corns and calluses, don't experiment — just use "GETS-IT" and nothing else. Easiest and simplest thing I know to use—just a few drops on in a few seconds—"GETS-IT" does the rest." The old way is to bundle up your toes in harnesses and bandages, use salves that make toes raw, cotton rings that make your corns pop-eyed, knives and "diggers" that tear your heart out and leave the corn in. No wonder they make you limp and wince. Forget all these—use "GETS-IT," the simplest corn remedy in the world, easiest to use, never fails or sticks, painless. Your corn loosens, then you lift it off. You can wear smaller shoes.

"GETS-IT" is sold and recommended by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price, by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Wilmington and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by R. R. Bellamy, Smith Drug Store, Southside Drug Co.

That is, assuming that the six leading morning dailies cover the entire field, which, of course, they do not—as there are papers printed in foreign languages, the Socialist publications, etc. The New York World stands at the head of the official sworn statement to the Postoffice Department, with 398,984 circulation. The American is second; next comes the Times, the Sun, Tribune, and finally the Herald, with a trifle less than 100,000. It would be interesting to know what per cent of these are left on subway and elevated trains each morning—the percentage is very large.

"Old Doc Pease," of Philadelphia, believes in the enforcement of the anti-smoke law. This does not mean that he cares anything about belching chimneys, or the burning of soft coal that might in due time change the color of nice, white shirtwaists, or soil the adornment of white fur, which Broadway misses draw up close to their fair shoulders on real hot days. "Doc" Pease has a mind that runs in the grooves where blue laws rest in comfort. However, if it were not for men like Pease, it is doubtful whether the penalties for spitting on the sidewalks or smoking in public places would ever be visited upon offenders. Quite recently Dr. Pease was instrumental in causing the arrest of offenders who smoked cigarettes in the New York subway. As a matter of fact, thousands of people violate this law, and are unmolested, but once in a while a real reformer like the Philadelphian comes along, and his appearances as witness in the police courts excites newspaper reporters, who write volumes about the activities of characters, who like Peace, are attempting to reform the universe by pestering a few individuals.

Settlement has been made on a mortgage executed sixty-seven years ago. The principal was $2,000 and the accrued interest is $7,890. The mortgage called for interest at the "lawful rate." The people of West Virginia have also had an object lesson as to the way in which interest grows. In the adjudication of the financial difficulties between Virginia and West Virginia the Supreme Court of the United States rendered a judgment of more than $5,000,000 favor of the mother state. To this was added accrued interest from the time of the commencement of the action, amounting to $7,000,000. In order to settle its claim the state of West Virginia has dug up the record of the ceding of the Northwest territory by the state of Virginia. Congress has indicated that it will permit a suit to be instituted against the Federal government to adjust this claim which runs back to the time of the formation of the republic by the original thirteen states. West Virginia's part, if judgment is rendered, will be more than sufficient to wipe out the indebtedness to Virginia, interest and all.

DR. GEORGE R. STUART COMING.

Dr. Stuart will deliver a platform lecture next Tuesday night at the Boys' Brigade Armory, on "Lop-Sided Folks," and it is expected that he will draw a good crowd in spite of the fact that it will be election night. The lecture will commence at eight o'clock. This will be a good way to pass time while waiting.

It is hardly necessary to say much about Dr. Stuart, as he is well known all over the country. At present he is pastor of the leading Methodist church in Birmingham, Ala. He comes highly recommended by such men as Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, Len. G. Broughton and Sam. P. Jones. A number of years ago he was here with Sam. Jones, conducting a meeting.

The Fifth Avenue Epworth League is selling tickets to the lecture at fifty cents each.

THE CONSECRATION OF SOCIAL LIFE.

I Cor. 9:19-23.

Social life is a big part of life. There can be no real division of life into the branches we ordinarily speak of, such as social, business and religious. Life is a complicated commodity. Its phases overlap.

Our religious life cannot rightfully be separated from our business life; our business life from our social life; or our social life from our religious life. The man who does not take his religion into his business has no religion worthy of faith. The man who attempts to disassociate his business life and his social life is apt to face failure in both. A man's business largely depends on his friends. A man's religion can be a tremendous factor in his influence on his friends.

The social life in the topic means all that life of contact with our fellowmen. It does not refer primarily to parties or strictly social events. It takes in every relationship of life. Really, therefore, our social life is our life in its contact, and the consecration of our social life means the consecration of our social life contact.

To accomplish the greatest amount of good with our lives we must do more than consecrate for a few hours and weeks. We need consecration of all our life. Certainly then we need consecration of our social life.

We need it because it relates us to everything else in life. It is the relationship that we have with others. We need our social life especially to be consecrated because its contact is always sympathetic. That is, there are closer and more intimate relations in our social life than in any business association or even in religious work. The consecration therefore of social life means the consecration of the most powerful touch that our lives have.

It is not necessary to forego any pleasure of social life in order that our lives may be consecrated. Consecration is not long-faced religion. A man does not have to be a fanatic to be in earnest. Our social life can be consecrated on a sane basis and still be perfectly consecrated.

1. Our social life can be consecrated by our taking a definite, valuable, open stand for Christianity. Live in such a way that those who know us will know us as Christian men and women. This does not mean a fanatical, continuous declamation about Christianity. We do not have to print the facts that we are gentlemen or ladies in order to have others recognize the fact; neither do we have to print Christianity to have others recognize our loyalty to it. It can be read in our lives.

2. We can consecrate our social life by taking a stand as a regular attendant at church services. The effect upon our friends will be an influence toward their attendance. The social contact of our lives will influence others simply because we consider the church service a big part of life. A very prominent physician in a large social city refused to make any engagements on Wednesday night; he said that he had an engagement with the Lord.

Hundreds of men with whom he came in contact were influenced by this sane, positive stand as a church attendant.

3. Our social life can be consecrated by our using its contacts to train others into the church. We can invite our friends. Instead of an engagement at home Wednesday or Sunday evening make an engagement to attend church services.

4. The greatest consecration of social life can be effected through personal work. Those friends who are closest to us can be approached. Every man we meet is a man for whom Christ died and whose heart Christ would reclaim.

Let us then consecrate every contact of life ,and our social life will be consecrated.

ORANGE COUNTY RALLY DAY CELEBRATED AT UNIVERSITY

Students, Townspeople and Country Folk Mingle Together.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 4.—Town and country folk mingled together here yesterday in celebration of Orange county rally day, which has become a regular feature of the yearly calendar, at the University. Farmers with products of the farm, thrifty housewives with needlework, cookery and other household products, country lasses with their ardent admirers, students of the University and citizens of the town of Chapel Hill all mingled in friendly intercourse, viewed the exhibits of products in Memorial Hall and partook of the elaborate luncheon spread under the campus trees nearby.

In Gerrard Hall the University comedians and vaudeville specialists furnished amusement for those who cared for it. The Pickwick ran free movies, youths from the districts of the county displayed their athletic prowess on the Emerson Field, itself the gift of an Orange county boy, and country Sunday schools engaged in singing contests during the afternoon. Prof. M. C. S. Noble, the prime mover in the whole affair, moved about from place to place in the crowds, directed the judging of prizes and saw that everybody had a good time generally. The bright sunshine and warmth of the day made it possible for everybody to spend much time out of doors, and the guests roamed at random through the various buildings and campus of the University.

The maximum electric rate to residence customers in St. Louis has been voluntarily reduced from 9 to 8.5 cents per kilowatt-hour.

O. HENRY'S PRISON EXPERIENCE

Daughter Takes Exception to Exploitation of Tragedy.

(New York World.)

To the Editor of The World:

The exploitation of the great tragedy in the life of my father—whom the world knows as O. Henry—concerns me more than any other human being, except Mrs. Porter and my grandmother. For the benefit of any others who cherish my father's memory it seems no more than right to state that we are neither sharers in any possible profits of the book which Dr. Alphonse Smith, of the University of Virginia, has written about my father's life nor parties to the unscrupulous and sensational methods of advertising which Dr. Smith and his publishers have chosen to adopt.

Realizing that this chapter would have to be revealed in a biography, and wishing to have it presented with dignity and decency, Dr. Smith, who had been my father's boyhood friend, was indeed approved by the family as biographer. No proofs or manuscript of the work have been submitted to us and I have no knowledge of what the book contains beyond what has been printed in the newspapers and as advance press agent matter. This, though assurance was expressly given that the proofs would be submitted.

Naturally, the main question at issue was the handling of the prison chapter in my father's life. Neither the members of his family nor his friends ever mentioned it, nor did he himself ever speak of it. It was not the arrest, conviction and sentence itself which were so terrible ,but the injustice of it all. I think my father would not allow himself to think about it because of the fear that his sense of injustice would embitter his whole viewpoint and rob him of the sweetness, the kindliness, the charity and understanding that permeates everything he has written. The only letters written by my father while he was in prison were to my grandmother—my mother's mother. These letters were of course, absolutely necessary, if the biography was to be complete. She earnestly, it now appears wisely, opposed giving these letters to the world, which means that she opposed the biography itself.

THEATRICAL

In announcing the presentation at the Victoria for the coming week of Reilly's Famous Globe Trotters, the management is absolutely sure that they are presenting the very greatest tabloid musical comedy and vaudeville company now on the road, the identical company that has played in the largest cities of the middle west and north, and has played return date on top of return date in every city in which they have ever appeared. The prediction is made that they will return to Wilmington at least three times during the season, if they can be booked.

Reilly's Globe Trotters, in the first place, is the biggest company that has ever appeared at the Victoria, carrying an all-star comuany of thirteen performers, and also carrying their own musical director, after the style of the biggest musical comedy shows out of New York city. And then it features well known stars, when Wilmington amusement lovers can place confidence in.

First and foremost is the famous Empire Quartette, which has made a name for itself all over the country, and has been on the road for more than four years, and is undoubtedly the greatest quartet of harmony singers ever heard in Wilmington. Then comes Ernest Linwood, the blackface comedian who is totally different from anything yet seen here. Harold Pate, by the way, a Wilmington boy, has a record of four years in "big time" company, and is a base soloist of much talent. Fred Kramer, the very best Dutch comedian on the road, and Fox Reilly, "the straight man who dresses" are some of the big extra features offered by this organization.

Absolutely the best looking, best dressed and best working chorus ever in Wilmington, is another guarantee that the management makes for the coming week. Seven girls, all pretty, and with the most elaborate costumes you have ever seen, put on the dozen big song and dance numbers with a dash and vim that will immediately endear them to Wilmington audiences. The usual free courtesy will be extended to ladies tomorrow night, although this will not be necessary to fill the house, and those desiring seats for the first evening performance should come early.

New Problem Drama—Royal.

Next Tuesday at the Royal will be presented one of the most vital problem dramas that has been filmed within the past two years, a marvelous production by the Ivan Film Features, entitled "The Immortal Flame" and starring the greatest assemblage of dramatic talent ever seen in a photoplay of equal length anywhere, headed by that celebrated dramatic artiste, Maude Fealy, supported by Paula Shay, the Mary Garden of the Screen, and a great Broadway cast, including James Cooley, Edna Luby and Willard Case.

"The Immortal Flame" is a five-act screen epic written and directed by Ivan Abramson, "Filmdom's Master Craftsman," and has as its theme "The love that rules without a sword—the love that binds without a cord."

"Love can neither be bought nor sold—the only price of life—is love," shows this vital photoplay of heart throbs and pathos, in which the various artists have cast restraint aside and acted each scene with a feverish intensity.

Maude Fealey, playing a woman who enters into a loveless marriage in order to further the political ambitions of her father, is far and away the most striking character seen on any screen recently. Profiting by a long screen experience Miss Fealy acts every scene for all it is worth, and in the last reel gives an astounding exhibition of physical daring, when, lightly clad, she wanders out on snow-covered Riverside Drive and enters the waters of the Hudson river. The picture closes with a glimpse of her body floating on the tide.

Booked at a heavy expense as an extraordinary feature ,the Royal will trus tto extraordinary good crowds, and will not increase the price of this attraction.

Goldberg Cartoons at Royal.

The announcement, long heralded, that the eccentric, screamingly funny cartoons of "Rube" Goldberg, known wherever newspapers are read, would be transformed to motion pictures, will bear fruit at the Royal Monday, when, as an extra feature the management starts an every-other Monday presentation of this exclusive and costly feature ,the Goldberg Cartoons. Goldberg, the orginator of "Foolish Questions," "Father Was Right," "I Never Thought of That," "Old Man Alf of the Alphabet," and other equally famous cartoon characters is the best known cartoonist in America and the highest salaried one. Therefore, it was a lucky stroke that Pathe signed him up at an enormous salary and another lucky streak when the Royal was able to book them and present as an extra feature at the Royal.

In movies Goldberg has created what he terms "The Boob Weekly," a burlesque in cartoons on current events, but as never was a pen gifted enough to describe his ludicrous creations, you will have to see them to appreciate what they are.

The regular Triangle bill will be on Monday, presenting William Collier, Jr., with Anna Lehr in a great Thomas H. Ince Triangle feature, "The Bugle Call," a story of the plans in the days when Indian attacks were a real menace, a stirring drama of army and scouting life with a bang and a dash that does not let up for a single instant for five full reels, starring beautiful Anna Lehr as co-star in a highly sympathetic and strongly dramatic role.

Don't forget—Goldberg cartoons as an extra feature tomorrow—no extra charge.

The Waltons at Grand.

Having danced their way to fame in the European capitals and in South America, the internationally celebrated Maurice and Florence Walton are now making their motion picture debut in the Famous Players Paramount picture "The Quest of Life," a photodrama that, if released separately would bring such high rentals that high priests would have to be charged, but released on the Paramount programme as tomorrow's regular Paramount feature at the Grand theatre.

Maurice and Florence Walton have probably done more to bring the dance to its present high state of perfection and to spread its popularity than any other two people in the world, originating the Argentine Tango into Europe and America, and the famous Apache dance, which is done in this feature.

The far-famed Apache dance will be only one of the many dances which they will perform in this stirring drama. Maurice learned this dance while in Paris and created a sensation when he first showed it to New York, dancing at the exclusive Biltmore Hotel, as well as in the principal cities of America. In addition to this famous dance the popular dancers will introduce other delightful numbers—some of which have never been seen on the stage. But that is not all—there is a big dramatic theme and no little spectacular work in "The Quest of Life" which is tomorrow's feature at the Grand.

MAURICE AND FLORENCE WALTON

MRS. VERNON CASTLE OVERCOME BY DIVE INTO ICY WATER OF LAKE

Mrs. Vernon Castle, who is appearing in the new preparedness serial, "Patria," had a narrow escape from drowning last week in Lake Cayuga, at Ithaca.

Mrs. Castle, who is an expert swimmer and diver, was doing a water scene which is a part of one of the episodes. Although the sun was shining brightly and the air was warm, the water of the lake was icy cold. Mrs. Castle did not realize that fact when she dove from the side of a steamship into the lake. The shock was so great that Mrs. Castle became unconscious and sank.

Milton Sills, who is Mrs. Castle's leading man in "Patria," was on the deck of the ship full clothed. He jumped overboard, rescued her, and with the assistance of other members of the "Patria" company, hurried Mrs. Castle to her home. She suffered from the shock during the remainder of the day, but fortunately escaped any serious after effects.

SOLDIERS ON THE BORDER WRITE TO GRACE DARLING

Grace Darling, who impersonates Beatrice Fairfax in the popular serial of that name, now being released, has become the recipient of almost as many letters daily as the famous confidants of the "lovelorn" herself. As with Miss Fairfax, the correspondents of Miss Darling all seem to be seeking "heart balm" of some kind as illustrated by the following letter recently received by the beautiful film star from two soldier boys stationed at McAllen, Texas, where the New York troops are encamped:

"Dear Miss Grace Darling:

"Just a moment ago my chum and I were looking through the Sunday papers and saw your portrait. Now, as there are so few nice looking girls along the border and so many, many boys, most of us get terribly lonesome, and so my chum and I thought we would write to you. We hope you will not think us 'too fresh' and that you will pardon the presumption.

"We are longing for home and our transfer to Fort Broadway; that would be the best thing that could happen to us. We are boys of the First New York Field Artillery. One of us came from the Royal Military Academy, at Breda, Holland, just nine months ago, but did not know there were so many pretty girls in America or you may be sure he would have come sooner. We are making the best of a tough situation here for we try to find out the best there is in a soldier's life, and it is not so bad.

"The mosquitoes keep us awake until midnight, and there are some rather unpleasant things, but we do our work with pleasure feeling that it is done for the protection of the nice and pretty American girls. We both hope that you will pardon our presumption and write us a few lines in return, and maybe you have a picture to spare, a real one."

SOUTH AMERICA RECOVERING.

Slowly Coming Out of Depression Caused by the War.

(Interview in Washington Post.)

"South America is recovering from the depression into which it was plunged by the European war, but slowly," said Dr. A. D. Adams, just back from Buenos Aires. "All the more important commercial countries of South America put forth extraordinary efforts to maintain their public credit, especially foreign debt services as a result of the war.

Retrenchments in expenditures, public loans, advances to banks and increased taxation—all were resorted to in order to restore or to maintain financial conditions. The states now seem to have passed the crisis and business has been on the upgrade for several months.

"In the less important commercial countries the war has had less effect. Bolivia has weathered the storm satisfactorily. Paraguay, a prey to revolutions and depreciated currency, is independently of the war, in hard financial straits. Peru, Colombia and Venezuela are doing well, not because of their own financial strength, but because the character of their foreign trade is such that their markets have been only slightly affected. Ecuador is the least affected. Mexico and Haiti were little affected, because exhausted by revolutions at home, Santo Domingo has been enjoying good trade conditions in spite of the disarrangement of her European market.

"Cuba expects the greatest sugar crop of her history, and with one or two exceptions Central American trade conditions are normal."

COUNTRY BOYS CAN BECOME BOY SCOUTS IF THEY WISH

Great Movement Has Opened Its Door to Rural Lads

The country boy who lives so far from other boys that it is not practical for him to join a scout group or patrol, may now become a Boy Scout without becoming a patrol member. This has just been announced at national headquarters. Wherever a boy is located he may now have all the fun that scouts everywhere are having, he may become a member of the Boy Scouts of America, the great organization of more than 200,000 boys led by the most eminent men of this country, among whom are the President and the two former presidents.

To thousands of boys from the backwoods of Maine to the ranches of California and from the Everglades of Florida to the plains of the great Northwest, who have written to national headquarters and begged to be enrolled as scouts, the answer has always been "You must form a troop or join a troop already organized."

In an enromous number of cases, however ,the boys have found it impossible to do either of these. Yet, in spite of the disappointment, these boys lost none of their enthusiasm and are yet as eager to become scouts now that their time has come.

"Now we couldn't help admiring these boys for their grit and spirit," writes the chief scout executive. "We knew they had good scout stuff in them, so we decided to work out a plan which would enable such boys to become regular scouts and allow them to wear the uniform and badges and pass their tests and have all the fun scouts enjoy.

"For a time we thought we would call these boys Lone Scouts. But that name didn't seem to fit very well—for we don't think they will be lonesome a bit. Then we hit upon the name Pioneer Scouts and that seemed to fit them perfectly, for they are to be a picked group of boys in the same way that the old pioneers who pushed back the frontier and conquered the wilderness were a picked group of men—men with courage and grit who tackled their work with a vim and would not let discouragements down them.

"And so the boys we take in as Pioneer Scouts are to be high-grade material. They will be pioneers of the movement, each in his own locality, living the life of a scout, showing the people what a boy scout is and opening the way for further expansion of the movement. We already have in our office the names of more than 1,000 boys who are enxious to become Pioneer Scouts."

A patent has been granted for an "electrically illuminated keyhole."

Stepless double-decker street cars which have proved so popular in New York, Pittsburg, Columbus and Washington are now appearing for the first time abroad on the Vienna Municipal Tramways.

Rumania's Hopes And Fears

What Rumania hopes to get out of the European war and what she feared would be her lot if she failed to take sides with the Entente Allies are questions logically set forth and answered in a striking communication to the National Geographic Society from John Oliver LaGorce. The society makes public a portion of Mr. LaGorce's letter in the following war geography bulletin released from Washington:

"Few states in history have been called to such momentous decisions as Rumania faced when it plunged boldly into the Niagara of blood and carnage that has rolled down over Europe for these two long years.

"But both hope and fear beckoned the Rumanians—the hope of a greater Rumania and the fear of a strangled homeland.

"The brave people of this little kingdom—for it is less than one fifth as big as Texas—have many proverbs. 'The water passeth and the stone remains,' they say, referring to their own persistence as a people in spite of the floods of humanity that have swept over their territory.

"In the whirlpool of racial rivalries of southeastern Europe—where Roman and Goth, Hun and Slav, Magyar and Mongol, with all their descendant peoples, have run over one another and have been run over in turn—fate left the Rumanians in the majority in a territory of more than 90,000 square miles. It scattered more than 12,000,000 of them over these lands—more than 7,000,000 in Rumania itself and some 5,000,000 elsewhere. In Bessarabia, a province of 17,000 miles and 2,600,000 population belonging to Russia, two-thirds of the people are Rumanians; in Transylvania, the eastern part of Hungary, a land of 21,000 square miles, and having a population of 2,500,000, 60 per cent, Rumania claims, are Rumanians; in Bukowina, an Austrian crownland of 4,000 square miles and 1,000,000 population, more than half are said to be Rumanians.

"And so 12,000,000 people yearn for a 'restored' Rumania—all ethnographic Rumania under the flag of political Rumania. If their country remained neutral ,they reasoned, there would be no chance of such a happy result. They might, they felt, get something out of Russia if the Central Powers won with Rumania on their side; but Transylvania and Bukowina would still be beyond their grasp. On the other hand, they believed Russia would give them Bessarabia as a prize for participation on her side, and the Allies Bukowina and Transylvania on condition of an allied victory.

"But if hope of a 'reunited' Rumania appealed greatly to the Rumania the fear of strangulation, if not extinction, turned the scale positively to the cause of the Allies.

"Just what this fear was and how it obsessed Rumanian statesmen can be imagined from a plea made just before the war by a Rumanian advocate. If an unfriendly Russia should gain control of Constantinople as a result of an Entente Allies victory, said this writer, it would inevitably mean the strangulation of Rumania. Bulgaria has her outlet on the Aegean; Serbia, so this prophet argued, would no doubt be rewarded for her suffering by a port on the Adriatic, but Rumania would remain dependent upon the will of the Great Bear astride the Dardanelles. Her splendid position on the Black Sea, controlling the delta of the great Danube waterway, would be of little worth to Rumania if the hostile Czar commanded the Sea of Marmora and the Hellespont, for how then would the bottled-up nation get her bulky products—corn, petroleum and timber—which require cheap water transportation, to the outside world?

"With the fruition of her hopes and the dissipation of her fears both seeming on one side, there seemed to be but one horn to Rumania's dilemma."

Of the three regions which Rumania hopes to incorporate into a "Greater Rumania" at the close of the war, Mr. LaGorce adds:

"Transylvania has a geographical rather than a political existence. It is a part of Hungary, although it is almost as much separated from geographic Hungary as the great plateau west of the Rockies is separated from the Mississippi Valley. It is the great highland region which forms the western slope of the Transylvania Alps and the southern slope of the southeastern Carpathians. 'The mountains cradled and brought our race to the manhood of its existence' say the Rumanians, and this applies both to the gradual western slope of the eastern Alps as well as to the sharper eastern slope.

"In this territory one may find every form of scenic beauty from the idyllic pastoral picture to the majestically rugged mountain and the frenzy-churned waters of the torrential rivers. The region's popular customs, language, and costumes are preserved in all their primitive originality, amid sharply defined boundaries created by nature and a sternly cold climate born of the high Alps.

"From the standpoint of material value, Bessarabia would be worth more to Rumania than Transylvania. It is one of the richest provinces of Russia, and with the Pruth on the one side and the Dniester on the other, it is ideally watered, no place within its boundaries being more than 40 miles from a navigable stream. Kishinef, which is remembered with horror as the scene of the frightful Jewish massacre a few years ago, is its capital. The southeastern corner of the province lies only a dozen miles or so from the great Black Sea port of Odessa—the New York of southern Russia.

"Bukowina is an Austrian crownland traversed by offshoots of the Carpathians, and famous for its horses and cattle. It has many fine forests, numerous rich mines, and its people have been thrifty and industrious. It has belonged to Austria for nearly a century and a half, having been ceded to that country by Turkey in 1777. It is populated by a veritable congress of races, with the Slav and the Rumanian well in the majority."

SPARROW CARRIED LETTERS

Feathered Thief Took Them From Mail Box to Barn.

(Nashville (Ind.) Dispatch.)

C. M. Calvin, a rural letter carrier out of Nashville, and Mart Lucas, a patron of the route, tried for several days to catch a thief who had been stealing letters from Lucas' mail box. Calvin several times had placed in the box letters that Lucas did not receive.

Lucas finally hid behind a tree in his yard, and after the carrier deposited the mail, saw a sparrow fly in and come out with a letter in its beak. He watched the bird fly into his barn, and there he found all his missing letters, showing rough places on the edges where th esparrow had tried to tear them. Lucas said he would buy a new mail box that can be closed.

MAGAZINE IS PUBLISHED NEAR THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

"The Eskimo" Makes Appearance From Northwestern Alaska.

Washington, Nov. 4.—A farthest north magazine, published near the Arctic Circle, has made its appearance under the title "The Eskimo," and is devoted to the interests of Eskimos of the Northwestern District of Alaska. It is published at Nome by teachers and others of the United States Bureau of Education who have been formally congratulated by P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, for their enterprise.

In the leading article of its first issue, written by Superintendent Walter C. Shields of the education bureau, it says:

"The Eskimo is not dependent. On the contrary, he is, even in his present condition, a real and vital factor in the wealth of the country. He has never received a ration from the government; he can support himself, not always according to our standards it is true, but it is better for him to eat strictly native food than for him to learn to expect the government to support him.

"The wail so often heard from ignorant but presumably charitable people, "Why don't you give the poor people some food?" if heeded, would make paupers out of a self-supporting and noble race. We are proud of the fact that we have not fed the Eskimo. We are proud of him as a man because he feeds himself.

"One reason why primitive races have so often been pushed to the wall by the white race has been that the white races have coveted and needed the land. As far as we can see, for years to come the white man will not make any attempt to push the Eskimo off his part of the map. While there will undoubtedly be developments in mining, yet for a long time to come the northern part of Alaska, though some unexpected development, should become desirable for a large white population, we believe that with what developemnt the Eskimo has already received, and the additional development that even five years more of undisturbed possession of his northern fastnesses will give him, he will be well fitted to meet advanced economic conditions.

"We of the Alaska school service are helpless to bear the white man's burden; we do not claim to be ministering to a dying race; we want no praise as helpers of the weak or as ministers to the downtrodden who are dying in filth and degradation. We do not allow any one to class us in these categories. That class of work is entirely humanitarian and is properly the duty of the mission ary organizations. But as representatives of the government we claim the right of our service to exist because we are developing the resources of Northern Alaska just as much as any man with a pick and pan. We are adding to the wealth of the nation just as much and as surely as any prospector or trailmaker. We are making a country productive just as much as any reclamation project that was ever managed by the government."

French army helmets are stamped out of the best quality hardened sheet steel by electrically-driven machines attended by women. The helmets are turned out at the rate of 50,000 a day and more than 3,500,000 have already been made.

Electricity passed through freshly cut timber renders it more resistant against decay and fungous growth according to English scientists.

FRANCE TO MAKE REPORT TO ATTRACT TOURIST TRADE

War Has Taught French to Appreciate the Foreign Visitor.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

Paris, Oct. 31.—France will make her first organized effort to attract tourist trade when peace is restored.

The war made French people appreciate fully for the first time how many persons of means had been in the habit of hurrying to Paris from all corners of the world. No effort was made to induce them to come, because the magnetic attraction of the town alone sufficed; but since they have awakened to see many other things, the French have looked into this question of touring and have found that some 500,000 Russians were in the habit of rusticating in Germany and Austria where they left each year the equivalent of more than a billion francs. Eight hundred thousand persons visited the 11% seaside resorts of the Baltic and the North Sea in 1913.

French business men, and particularly hotel men, are inclined to think that French resorts and French artistic centers present far greater attractions than the Baltic or the North Sea, and have finally consented to open their minds to the question as to whether this great number of people did not find more modern comfort and better hygiene in German hotels.

No one knows how much money Americans spend in France each year, but the estimates, varying from 200 million dollars to 250 million dollars a year, are not considered to be excessive. Financiers appreciate how this annual expenditure, aided by a part of the billion francs that the Russians spent in Austria and Germany each year, will help the rate of exchange; they are prodding French hotels, resort managers, and railroads, to prepare in a proper way for visitors, then do the necessary advertising. Railroads are called upon to provide more comfortable cars and give better train service, and hotel men are being told they must make it easier for visitors to take a comfortable bath.

The Touring Club of France is now taking up the question from the traveller's point of view, and is also occupying itself with the necessary renewal practically of the entire staffs of many of the principal houses now sheltering wounded soldiers, when they are restored to their original destination.

Outside of the kitchen, the hotel employes before the war were mostly German and Swiss. The hotel syndicate has resolved that the Germans shall not be taken back. Other employes must be trained to take their places, and the hotel committee of the Touring club is arranging to educate and train them in the hotel sections created by the government in the schools of commerce and industry. The courses are to begin at once, providing general education to those applicants who need it, then taking up courses in hotel work.

"WASHINGTON SCANDAL"

Carried to an Extent Against Which Decency Rises in Revolt.

(Charlotte Observer.)

It is a common custom over the country to point to this or that provincial locality—to this or that town—as the seat of original sin and scandal, where the eight-hour law has no application to the wagging tongue of gossip and where backbiting and fly-blowing form the principal amusements. But events, some recent and some not so recent, have brought the Observer around to the conclusion that as Washington is the Nation's seat of government, it is also the seat of the Nation's scandal. During the past week or two the papers have been carrying a story written by a personal friend of the President and one having intimate knowledge of his domestic life. This writer dwelt with great particularity on the happiness and joy, the peace and contentment, that daily abided in the household of President Wilson, and there was a significance behind all this emphasis that was of easy understanding by those who had been living in the knowledge of the character of scandal that had been coming out of Washington at intervals since the inauguration of the President. The domestic life of the occupant of the White House has been the object of the most heartless distortion by the tongue of scandal of which there is perhaps any history. Base insinuation has grown into open charges and the name of the President of the United States has been bandied about with such a recklessness and disregard to truth as to have become a positive shame to the American sense of honor. It was in refutation of this scandal, originating in Washington and diligently propagated there, that this friend of the President felt called upon to divulge the actual details of his domesticity. This gossipy characteristic of Washington society must have been marked in recent years by all visitors to the capital. Mr. Wilson does not hold place alone and to himself. Washington appears to regard the White House as legitimate prey for the tongue of scandal. Stories of a revolting character were told of Taft. Mr. Roosevelt did not entirely escape. The old gossipers about Washington will tell the listener bits of gossip of the back lot character in connection with the life of almost every President back to the days of Washington, and including the Father of His Country, himself. There seems to be no safeguarding domestic life at the White House from the scandal mongers, and while all Presidents have suffered, in the case of Mr. Wilson it has been carried to an extent against which decency rises up in revolt. Still, the evil clatter will go on., it is to be supposed, so long as the dame with the wagging tongue and her consort, the male hyena whose sole occupation is a carrier of the scandal germ, infest the atmosphere around Washington.

THIS SHIP CAME BACK

Famous Old Steamer Returns to Atlantic After 30 Years' Absence.

(New York Herald).

Old salts who pride themselves on knowing every vessel that ever appeared in this harbor rubbed their eyes and took a second look as the city of Puebla of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company steamed past Quarantine and up the bay. This is the first time in 30 years that the City of Puebla, once a familiar sight in these waters, has entered port, and to all but real "old timers" it was a stranger.

The City of Puebla was built in 1881 at the Cramp yards in Philadelphia for the firm of F. Alexandre & Sons, and for several years plied between this city, Habana and Mexico in the passenger service.

In October, 1887, it was taken over by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company and sent on the then voyage around the Horn, making the trip in the middle of the winter season. She arrived at San Francisco on December 19, 1887.

From that time until last August the City of Puebla has plied on the Pacific and has been one of the most widely known vessels on the West coast.

Its return trip began on August 24 last, and this time it took the short cut of the Panama Canal, which was only an unrealized dream when it went around the Horn. It brought a cargo of flour and barley.

POPE'S ATTACK ON THE PRESIDENT REPUDIATED

Pamphlet Criticising 8-Hour Law Denounced as Unauthorized.

Members of Association of Farmers' Union Presidents Repudiate Statement Issued by Head of Organization.

New York, Nov. 4.—Farmers' Union officials of fourteen states emphatically repudiate the recent attack on the administration of President Wilson made by H. N. Pope, of Texas, president of the Association of State Presidents of the Farmers' Union. Mr. Pope achieved passing notoriety a few months ago by waiting on President Wilson at Washington and demanding that his neutrality policy with reference to commerce on the high seas be disregarded in a way to give cotton a market not opened to other farm products.

Mr. Pope's latest pronunciamento against President Wilson is a pamphlet attacking the Adamson law, ostensibly published from official records of the Association of State Presidents of the Farmers' Union. This association is composed of officials of the Farmers' Union, all of whom have telegraphed the Democratic National Committee that the organization has no official knowledge of Pope's attack on the President and that it was issued without their authority.

Among the state presidents and other officials of the Farmers' Union sending messages to this effect are: O. W. Taylor, Oklahoma; J. E. Rogers, Arkansas; A. P. Thornhill, Virginia; O. P. Ford, Alabama; H. Q. Alexander, North Carolina; E. L. Harrison, Kentucky; I. H. Rhodes, Tennessee; J. L. Shepherd, Florida; Charles L. Wetzler, Colorado; Walter Smith, Indiana; M. McAuliffe, Kansas; J. K. McCall, Washington-Idaho Division; A. C. Davis, national secretary-treasurer, and Austin Hill, president of the Illinois organization. Mr. Hill's telegram, characteristic of all, follows:

"We know nothing of this pamphlet. The Farmers' Union people in Illinois are not against Wilson; he has done too much for them in the way of legislation. Any person who is representing a farmers' organization and putting out literature against Wilson is a traitor to the Farmers' Union and should be expelled from the same."

This emphatic repudiation of Mr. Pope's activities is now followed by the revelation of what has been denounced as a conspiracy to "rig" the cotton market and plunder the farmers of the South of millions of dollars.

On the evening of September 6 ,1916, the following telegram was filed for transmission in the office of the Western Union, at Fort Worth, to be relayed from New Orleans, thus giving the message the appearance of having originated at New Orleans.

Western Union Special.

Ft. Worth, Texas, Sept. 6, 1916.

Mgr., New Orleans, La.

The annual meeting of the Association of State Farmers' Union Presidents, which has just closed here fixed 12 cents per pound as the minimum price of cotton and urged that all bankers ,merchants and business interests of the South co-operate in maintaing this price in order that the cotton industry of the South might be placed upon a stable basis.

HENRY N. POPE.

Immediately upon the printing of this telegram in the newspapers and its posting on the cotton exchanges of the country ,the price of cotton, which was then in excess of 16 cents, declined forty-three points and millions of dollars were lost to cotton farmers of the South.

Mr. Pope repudiated this telegram on September 12, six days after transmission. In the interim, the brokers who were "short" on cotton had time to cover during one of the most sensational breaks in the market in recent years.

The records of the Western Union at Fort Worth show that this telegram was filed for transmission and Pope's name signed by J. A. Arnolds, who alleged that he was publicity man for Pope's organization. J. A. Arnold is notoriously known in Texas as the paid agent of the railroads and brewers. Court records of that State show that, in a prosecution instituted by the Attorney General of Texas, Arnold's corporation employers pleaded guilty to violation of the Texas statute which prohibits the use of corporation funds for political purposes. The court record shows that the railroad and liquor interests paid money to Arnold, then acting as secretary of the State Association of Commercial Club Secretaries, and that Arnold used this money for political purposes.

On September 12, 1916, this telegram was sent from Fort Worth to New Orleans, addressed to a member of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange:

"Informed Henry N. Pope, now in Fort Worth, understands fully all circumstances connected with special referred to and filed by his publicity man, J. A. Arnold. We are informed 'Twelve cents per pound as the minimum price for cotton' should have read 'Twelve cents per pound as the loan price for cotton.' That correction is being issued by Mr. Pope and those concerned at Fort Worth."

On the same date, September 12, Mr. Pope sent this telegram to the New Orleans Cotton Exchange:

"Fort Worth, Texas, 3 p. m., Sept. 12, 1916.

"New Orleans Cotton Exchange, care W. H. Schroeder, New Orleans, La.

"Special of September 6th was wired from Fort Worth to New Orleans to be resent under New Orleans date line. This was not signed or authorized by me and I am making investigations here. No fault of Western Union.

"HENRY N. POPE."

Referring to this matter ,the Farmers' Fireside Bulletin, official paper of the Texas Farmers' Union, in its issue of Sept. 27, editorially says:

"It is freely reported that certain spot firms in Texas have been too active in selling cotton at a low figure and that, unless they are enabled to purchase several hundred thousand bales of cotton at a very cheap price the chances are they will go bankrupt. And one broker remarked that these firms in Texas could readily afford to pay somebody twenty-five thousand dollars, or more, each, to have sent the fake telegram, which cost the farmers a loss in the price of cotton of at least fifteen million dollars in one day.'"

The Democratic National Committee contends that the Pope attack on the Adamson law was inspired from railroad sources and that there is documentary evidence which proves that one railroad prominent in Texas politics paid for ten thousand copies of the Pope document, which were delivered to Arnold, who was in New York recently negotiating for the general distribution of the pamphlet throughout the country prior to election. The committee asserts that the circulation of this document in more than two states, in an effort to influence voters, brings it within the Federal statute requiring publication of campaign expenses and is demanding that Mr. Pope file a statement showing where he gets the money.

BIG DEVELOPMENTS IN THE SOUTH ANNOUNCED

Iron, Steel, Coal and Coke Enterprises Especially Prominent.

Big Contract Awarded in Connection With Plans of Schwab Interests to Invest $20,000,000 or More at Sparrow's Point.

Big developments requiring large investments of capital are among the many important Southern industrial announcements of the past week, as gleaned from the details presented in the Manufacturers Record. Iron, steel, coal and coke enterprises were especially prominent, including important purchases and awards of contracts. These included a $2,000,000 order by the Bethlehem (Pa.) Steel Corporation for the construction of four additional iron furnaces, open-hearth steel plant, plate mills, etc., for the Penn-Mary Steel Company's works, at Sparrow's Point.

This big contract is in connection with the plans of the Charles M. Schwab interests for investing from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 for improvements and additional plants at Sparrow's Point.

An important purchase, involving about $500,000, was that of the Semet-Solvay Company of Syracuse, N. Y., from the Alabama Company, of Birmingham. It calls for 7,500 acres of coal lands in Tuscaloosa county, Alabama, and will be followed by mining developments with coke-manufacturing and other kindred plants. The Semet-Solvay management also incorporated the Edgewater Coal Co., of Ashland, Ky., a $600,000 corporation, to develop Kentucky coal properties recently purchased by the Kentucky Solvay Coke Company, which is controlled by the Semet-Solvay Company. The Kentucky corporation will increase its capitalization from $1,300,000 to $2,250,000 in connection with plans for these and other additional developments.

Other important announcements were: $1,000,000 company to manufacture paper at Hattiesburg, Miss.; $1,000,000 company to build 50-ton-daily-capacity paper-pulp mill near Savannah, Ga.; $2,442,594 contract for building government drydock at Norfolk navy yard; $500,000 corporation to manufacture brass tubing and other similar products at Baltimore; $150,000 investment for a 1,500-ton-daily-capacity coal mining plant at Prairie Creek, Ark.

From the many other industrial announcements, all detailed in the Manufacturers' Record, are taken the following brief references:

Holland Manufacturing Co., Gastonia, N. C., increased capital by $150,000 to build additional cotton-yarn mill.

Huntington Clay Products Co., Huntington, W. Va., organized with $100,000 capital to manufacture paving and building tile.

England Public Service Co., England, Ark., incorporated with $100,000 capital to build electric light plant.

White Cliffs Lime Co., White Cliffs, Ark., incorporated with $100,000 capital to crush limestone for fertilizer.

George L. Roberts, Sarsota, Fla., will organize $75,000 company to enlarge his shipyards by adding marine railway, machine shop and other facilities.

Cook Duck Mills, Cedartown, Ga., organized with $150,000 capital to establish 3,500-spindle and 80-loom electric-driven plant for manufacturing cotton duck.

Carolina Acid Wood Co., Statesville, N. C., incorporated with $75,000 capital to manufacture acids from wood.

Larabee Flour Mills Association, Wichita, Kans., will build 5,000-barrel-daily-capacity flour mill at St. Joseph, Mo.

Mowbray & Robinson Company, Cincinnati, plans to develop 50,000 acres of timber land in Kentucky.

Little Rock Flour Mill Co., Little Rock, Ark., organized to build mill with daily capacity 200 barrels of flour.

Fort Mill Manufacturing Co., Fort Mill, S. C., awarded contract for 272x101-foot weave mill to be equipped with 850 looms for producing ginghams.

Highland Cotton Mills, High Falls, N. C., ordered 5,000 additional spindles with accompanying equipment.

Waste! Modern economy demands all of the power of the fuel and all of the "drive" of the gasoline

Because of mechanical betterments, coal which yesterday went to the mine dumps is today driving the machinery of production and transportation—for gases once wasted are now consumed.

More energy is extracted—by the help of science—from every pound of coal.

It's because of Twin-six motor refinements that the Packard demonstrates its unusual ability to handle low-gravity gasoline—to transform a sluggish vapor into hot, lean, lively gas and return utmost mileage in all weathers and on all roads.

More energy is now extracted—by the Twin-six—from every gallon of gasoline.

Let us make clear to you all that this means in motor car economy—and in your personal economy. The time and the place are yours to name.

Packard prices are $2,865 and $3,265 at Detroit—for the 2-25 and 2-35 open cars.

COTTON SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Prices Tend Upward on Buying Attributed Largely to Wall Street Shorts—Gain of 6 to 13 Points.

The opening was barely steady unchanged to a decline of 12 points, January selling at 18.78 and May at 19.02. Liverpool was a buyer here, although the English market was closed, and prices soon rallied. After reacting several points under realizing, the market turned firmer again late in the morning on buying attributed largely to Wall Street shorts. January sold up to 19.00 and May to 19.28, or 13 to 14 points net higher, and something like 20 to 25 points above the low level of the morning. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing.

POLITICS AFFECTS STOCKS

Important Stocks, Including U. S. Steel, Dull Under Moderate Pressure. Gains for Rails.

New York, Nov. 4.—Political factors were held responsible for the irregularity of the stock market during today's short session. Important stocks, including United States Steel, were dull or under moderate pressure, with metals, Motors, Crucible Steel, Pressed Steel Car, Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, Pullman and Paper issues.

Offsetting features were found in Closs-Sheffield Steel, which rose three points, Columbia Gas up 3 5-8 to the new record of 45 1-8, National Enameling, common and preferred, Continental Can, Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum and Montana Power.

Rails were comparatively inactive, the only noteworthy features being Norfolk and Western at an advance of 1 3-4, Peoria and Eastern, which rose two points and Seaboard Air Line preferred, Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic common and preferred ,and Toledo, St. Louis and Western at gains of 1 to 2 points. Market news included the announcement of another rise in refined copper ad indications of still higher quotations for fabricated steel and iron.

Foreign gold received during the week accounted in large measure for the actual cash gain of over $23,000 000 shown by local banks, and the further substantial expression of excess reserves to almost $125,000,000. Bonds were most irregular. Total sales par value $2,470,000. United States bonds unchanged on call during the wek.

COTTON GOODS MARKET.

Prices Continue to Rise as Much as Restricted Movement Will Permit.

New York, Nov. 4.—Primary market trading in cotton goods was less active during the week, yet prices are still going up and the movement of goods is as large as restricted or congested transportation and producing facilities will permit. Jobbing and retail distribution continues on a very active scale. The near approach of election day and the very high prices prevailing have led manufacturers and their agents to hesitate anout booking many of the late orders tendered. Narrow print cloths in odd constructions have reached a price level of 45 cents per pound. BIG INCREASE IN FLOUR COST IS NOW PREDICTED

Minneapolis Expert Sees Possibility of $15 a Barrel.

(Minneapolis Cor. Christian Science Monitor.)

Milling men of Minneapolis believe wheat and flour prices will go much higher before the new crop in Texas is harvested next June, or the winter wheat begins to come into the elevators from Kansas and the other southwestern states next July.

"The millers are helpless to stop the ascending price of flour," said F. J. Atkinson, vice-president of a large flour company, to a representative of the Christian Science Monitor. "We are put to it to obtain, in the Northwest, the quality of wheat that we require, because of the partial crop failure in this section, and, for the first time in my memory, Minneapolis mills have been importing wheat from the Southwest. Naturally, the quotations on flour must follow those on wheat. I will not be surprised, before the winter and spring are over, to see flour selling at $12 or $15 a barrel."

It was a member of Mr. Atkinson's firm who gave out the fact, when quotations for "first patent" flour were made of $10 a barrel, and this is the highest price quoted on flour since the days of the civil war.

The rise in price during the past fortnight has been rapid. From a price of $8.80 10 days ago quotations were forced upward by the rising wheat market at the rate of 20 to 50 cents a barrel a day until "first patents," the highest grade flour, reached the $10 price. This was based on December wheat at $1.95 a bushel, plus the four cent premium for cash wheat. It should be remembered that $10 flour at wholesale in Minneapolis means from $10.50 to $12 a barrel when it reaches the consumer in other cities.

CAMPAIGN CLOSED IN ROBESON LAST NIGHT

Republicans Admit Wilson's Defeat Would be Great Mistake.

Both Sides Realize That Democratic Majority Will Be Large—Heaviest Frost Yet at Lumberton—Court Wednesday.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 4.—The campaign closed in Robeson today, the final wind-up being held tonight in different sections. Democrats and Republicans alike expect the county to go overwhelmingly Democratic, as usual. Both sides have been working hard during the week. While Democratic speakers have been shooting big guns, all over the county, the Republican cap-pistols have been fizzing over as much ground as possible.

The county ticket to be voted is: Frank Gough for the Senate; J. S. Oliver and G. B. Sellars for the House; R. E. Lewis, sheriff; M. W. Floyd, register of deeds; G. E. Rancke, Sr., coroner; J. Ed. Tyson, surveyor; C. B. Townsend, John W. Ward and J. F. McKay, commissioners; E. M. Britt, recorder for Lumberton district; R. A. McLean, prosecuting attorney. All are present incumbents, except Mr. Tyson, for surveyor. Mr. Rancke, candidate for coroner, has held that office for the past several years. He is among the county's best citizens and celebrated his 80th birthday last April.

We have talked with some of the best Republicans who frankly admit that it would be a great mistake to defeat President Wilson. They will vote for their man and offer a prayer that he will be defeated. We expect a quiet, orderly election in this county, with our usual big Democratic majority.

Capt. Russell Quits Railroad.

After having engaged in the railroad business for over 30 years, Mr. J. P. Russell severed his connection with the V. & C. S. last Thursday, and is now engaged in other business. Mr. J. Q. Beckwith, for several years auditor of the road, is now assistant to the general manager; part of his duties being to do the work formerly done by the superintendent, that office having been abolished. Mr. Beckwith will be found right on the job.

Captain Russell is now manager of the Lumberton Motor Car Company, one of the fastest-growing industries in this section. The building on Fifth street is to be remodeled, a display room is to be provided for machines and all accessories, and the machine shop is to be enlarged, where all kinds of work in that line will be quickly and correctly done. The foundry department will also be enlarged and put in shape for turning out any kind of a job needed. Captain Russell is delighted with his new position, and while he is always a busy man he has time to greet everyone with a smile.

Time flies, and as one grows older time flies faster and faster. Forty-two years ago this day, November 4th, 1874, The Star correspondent, then a lad, left Lumberton in company with a gentleman and another boy for a trip to the seashore. Our traveling outfit consisted of an old-fashioned two-horse covered wagon, drawn by two mules, and a horse and cart. Riding in that covered wagon was more pleasure to us then than riding a Pullman these days. The end of the first day on our extended trip found us at the town of Whiteville. The second day we reached Fireway ferry, and on the forenoon of the third day we found ourselves near the "jumping-off place" in Brunswick county. It was said to be five miles from Little River, S. C., but we cant remember the name of the bunch of trees where we camped. We can only remember the names of three men we saw there: Sheriff Galloway, Mr. Frank Hughes and a Mr. Stanly. The sheriff, we thought, was a handsome, clever fellow, but he had no business with our traveling outfit. We had seen mullets before, but here is where we first got the scent of roasted oysters, and from then till now we don't run from the scent. That was one of the largest trips of our existence, excepting none. The man who went with us has long since gone on a trip from which he is not expected to return, while our boy friend resides only a few miles away.

During the summer just passed Lumberton was as near clear of flies as it seemed that it could be made. However, a few weeks ago they began to gather in a few places in large numbers, puzzling health officers and everybody else. Now, it is thought that the question has been solved. A few weeks ago, a little stranger, "conceived in sin and born in iniquity" appeared in town in the form of a little 4-page "weekly." It was an orphan, having neither papa nor mamma. The suggestion has been made that it was so rotten that it attracted the flies, hence the solution of the problem. The little visitor cried a good bit, the nurse seeming to get fretted sometimes at its littleness, and would cause it to make more noise about newspaper correspondents than anything else. It just cried in its "weakly" visits about the pencil pushers, the presumption being that it was not getting the notoriety that it expected. The poor little fatherless, motherless orphan got able last week to make it plain that it was whining at The Star correspondent, else we would not have referred to it at all. It had a fainting spell—turned yellow—got the proof of the color—and died.

Chautauqua Not Appreciated

The three-days' Chautauqua came to an end last night, and while the attractions have been as good as the common run of that class, and the weather conditions all that could be wished, the people didn't seem to catch on to the spirit, and at each entertainment the audience was scarce. If the opinion of several is worth much, entertainments of this kind are ever here.

Messrs. Stephens & Barnes, furniture dealers and undertakers, have had to move where they could have more room on account of increasing business. They now occupy the northern store in the McIntyre building on Chestnut between Fourth and Fifth streets, using both floors and the second floor over the grocery store of Mr. M. N. Folger. The firm is now in the best quarters they have ever had, prepared in every way for everything in their line.

Wilmington to Lumberton.

Mr. Sanderson has opened up a fruit stand in a regulation galvanized iron building on Elm street, between the National Bank of Lumberton and 5 and 10-cent store. Mr. Sanderson was for over five years with S. & B. Solomon, of Wilmington, but decided to return to Lumberton and engaged in business for himself.

In the Norment cemetery is a little grave marked "Cornie." The question has been asked whose little child was it. No one will ever know. Many years ago a woman visited Lumberton, stopping at what is now the Lumberton hotel. She carried an infant with her, which she seemed anxious to give to some good married couple without children. Mr. J. D. Bryant and wife were at that time residents of Lumberton and, through sympathy, took the little one to whom they soon became greatly attached. They did not enjoy the pleasure long of keeping the child, as in a few months death claimed it.

Mr. D. R. Shaw and family began housekeeping this week, having rented the first floor of the home of Mr. Rexford Stephens, corner Fifth and Walnut streets. Mr. Stephens retains the second floor.

Apples and Irish potatoes are coming into Lumberton in car lots in bulk. No short market in fruits here at present.

Mrs. Ina Lehr, widow of the late "Billie" Lehr, arrived here yesterday to spend a few days. She had not been in Lumberton for 18 years, she and her husband having been at that time members of the old original Williams Comedy Company, one of the first, if not the first, "rep" show to play in the Lumberton Opera House after its completion by the late Dr. Vampill. Mrs. Lehr notes many great improvements since her former visit here. She is assisted by Mrs. Marie DeGafferely and Miss May B. Williams, who will be seen with the Williams Stock Company, which opens an engagement at the Pastime Theatre Monday evening.

The Robesonian was established in February, 1870, and from then till now we can't recall but two Republicans who have ever assisted in its publication. At present it has a linotype operator whose voice may be heard at some Republican meeting every nearly night.

"Cruelty to Animals."

Wednesday night a car load of cattle came to Lumberton. In the car was a cow in some manner got one of her legs broken. That cow was taken from the car and dropped down in one corner of the lot adjoining the stock shute. In its suffering agony that dumb beast was allowed to remain there in that condition until yesterday afternoon when it was relieved of its sufferings by being killed. Don't mention sending missionaries to convert the heathen.

A man was in Lumberton today from New York, offering to bet two to one on Wilson. We heard of no takers.

To escape the excitement incident to election times, vote early Tuesday and then dig out for the Wilmington Corn Show. Return in time for the Robeson County Fair, here on the 15th to 18th.

Heaviest Frost Yet.

The heaviest frost of the season occurred here this morning, and ladies and children having to go away on the early train were certainly given a cold reception at the passenger station. Something was said about taking up a collection to buy a stove and fuel for following sufferers.

Grover Britt, local reporter for The Robesonian, says that Troy Barnes, Republican candidate for the Legislature, made the statement at the passenger station one morning this week in the presence of three or four others, that he had rather see the days of Russelism than the present conditions existing. Is not that an admission of what Troy would do if he were in power?

Manager Newman, of the 5 and 10-cent store, has greatly improved the appearance of the front of the building by a fresh coat of paint and replacing the old awning with a new one.

Superior court, which is scheduled for Monday, will not commence until Wednesday, on account of the election on Tuesday. Judge Winston will preside.

Mr. James M. Russell, son of Capt. and Mrs. J. P. Russell, received a telegram yesterday from Washington, asking if he would accept a position as draftsman for the government. Mr. Russell is not in town, and we are not in position to say if he will or will not accept the position. The offer is a flattering one, but those who know of Mr. Russell's ability know that he would be the right man in the right place.

MANY WAYNE COUNTY DEMOCRATS CHALLENGED BY REPUBLICANS

Latter Have More Negroes Registered Than Ever—Fighting Hood.

(Special Star Telegram).

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 3.—That the Republicans are determined to fight hard to the last was evidenced today when they "challenged" a good many Democrats' right to vote. Wayne county Democrats nor the Republicans have ever done this before, while the Republicans, according to a statement issued today by H. B. Parker, secretary of the Democratic executive committee, have many more negroes registered this year than ever before.

The Republicans are making their hardest fight, according to a surmise of the situation, to defeat Congressman George E. Hood, of the Third district, $3,000 having been sent to this district to assist Hood's opponent to win.

WHY NOT GRAFT MINT ON IT?

Botanists Puzzled by Plant That Manufactures Ice.

(Philadelphia North American.)

Late in autumn, after producing two sets of blooms, the first weed becomes a miniature ice factory and forms crystals of "ice" about the cracked bark of the root. On each little broken rootlet there appear cakes of "ice," exactly right in size for the refrigerator of a fairy queen. As yet no botanist has been able to discover the secret of the plant's ice making.

The ice appears often long before ice is formed on the ponds, and can be found by digging up the deeply set rootlets.

Two blooming seasons is another peculiarity of the plant. Early in June it sends out a wealth of golden yellow blossoms, having five petals each and set at intervals upon the thickly leaved stem. These blooms mature and produce seeds.

Then late in August the plant flowers again, producing blooms identical with those of the earlier season.

CAMPAIGNERS IN NEW YORK WILL MAKE A FINAL 'DRIVE' TODAY TO WIN IN THE ELECTION TOMORROW

Both Democrats and Republicans Are "Confident" But Are Not Taking Any Risks.

NO STATEMENT BY HUGHES

Neither Chairman McCormick Nor Chairman Willcox Have Further Comment to Make.

MANY CONFLICTING CLAIMS

Leaders of Both Parties in All Sections Predict Victory.

New York, Nov. 5.—Candidates, party managers and political workers, whose activities are centered in New York, spent Sunday in comparative quiet, preparing for the final "drive" tomorrow.

While both Democrats and Republicans professed entire confidence in the outcome Tuesday, they are taking no chances on making political slips or errors. Instructions will be transmitted tomorrow to sub-chiefs and lieutenants all the way down to the precinct captains.

Hughes Has No Statement.

Charles E. Hughes, the Republican presidential candidate, who will remain here until after election, announced tonight that he considers his campaign closed and that he has no further statement to make. He told the few callers he had, however, that he felt sure of victory.

Mr. Hughes did not leave his hotel until after dinner tonight, when he went for a walk on Riverside Drive, calling later on the family of his son, Charles E. Hughes, Jr.

The Republican nominee will rest again tomorrow, and will vote Tuesday morning from the hotel here, which is his legal residence. The polling place will be an Eighth avenue laundry.

Neither Vance C. McCormick, the Democratic National Chairman, nor William L. Willcox, Republican chairman, had statements to make today.

Each spent part of the day at headquarters, making plans for tomorrow.

President Wilson's final message to state and county chairman wired from Long Branch, was made public at Democratic Headquarters without comment.

Eleventh hour efforts of both parties will be lent to swinging the election of congressmen in doubtful districts throughout the country. Frederick C. Tanner, chairman of the New York Republican state committee, issued a statement today predicting that 24 congressional candidates in this state will be elected by the Republicans and 17 by the Democrats. In the two remaining districts, he said, the chances favor the Republicans.

"The latest canvasses received by the Republican state committee confirm my statement of last Mnoday that Mr. Hughes will carry the state by more than 100,000," Mr. Tanner said, "and that Governor Whitman, William M. Calder and the entire Republican ticket will be elected by substantially the same pluralities."

State Chairman Harris, of the Democrats, added nothing to the prediction he previously had made that President Wilson and the state ticket will carry New York by a large plurality.

Estimates of the result in Greater New York have been submitted to Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, but have not been made public. It is reported today, however, that the estimates indicate President Wilson will carry the city by at least 85,000, and probably by much more.

BLEASE'S NAME APPEARS ON TICKETS IN SOME COUNTIES

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 5. — Interest in election results in South Carolina has been largely increased by the appearance in various counties of state tickets bearing the name of former Governor Cole L. Blease, defeated in the primaries, as Democratic nominee for governor. All other names on the tickets which have been printed and distributed are those of Democratic nominees. Mr. Blease, however, has not announced himself as an independent candidate.

Re-election of Governor Manning, Democratic nominee, generally is conceded. Opposing him are John Cantey, Progressive, and John C. Gibbs, Socialist. President Wilson is conceded South Carolina's electoral vote.

RALLIES TO FEATURE THE END OF TENNESSEE FIGHT

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 5. — Rallies will be held in virtually every county tomorrow and tomorrow night, as a climax to the campaign in Tennessee, one of the most active in recent years.

L. D. Hill, Democratic state chairman, today predicted that the entire Democratic ticket would sweep Tennessee by 35,000 votes.

J. Will Taylor, chairman of the Republican executive committee, said:

"We are better organized than we have been since 1896. We will greatly reduce the normal Democratic plural majority, if we do not wipe it out altogether, and we will elect four congressmen and a majority, if not all, of our state candidates."

President Wires a Final Word to Men Working for His Re-Election

Long Branch, N. J., Nov. 5.—President Wilson tonight wired his final word of the campaign to the men who have worked to bring about his re-election. The telegram, sent to every state and county chairman in the country, follows:

"I thank you heartily for the splendid work done by you and by all the workers in the cause of progressive principles at issue in this campaign.

"The fight is won, I fully believe; though I take this means of urging you to renewed exertions and vigilance to see that belated efforts to confuse the public judgement do not succeed.

"Our country is prosperous, secure and happy; and its prosperity is upon a sound basis. Steps to protect our commerce and industry in an emergency after the European war ends have been taken. The anti-dumping clause of the so-called war revenue act provides the executive with ample power to prevent the 'dumping' of European surplus manufactures upon our markets.

"The Tariff Commission will shortly be appointed and at work to provide the facts which will determine what other legislation is necessary or desirable. I need not add that the Federal reserve act is a guarantee against panics and that the Federal Trade Commission will aid, as it already has helped, to preserve the stability of our domestic and foreign commerce.

"I am confident that the time has passed in America when votes can be bought, the ballot box defiled by corrupt practices, or the judgments of the American people determined or influenced in any way by the use of money. It is, however, our duty to take every precaution, lest conscienceless agents of the sinister forces working in opposition to progressive principles and popular government resort in their desperation to industrial coercion or to the evil and insidious practices of a decade and more ago."

LINER DEUTSCHLAND MAY SAIL ON FRIDAY

Loading of Cargo of Rubber and Nickel Began Yesterday

Captain Koenig Indicates Homeward Dash May be Made Late Friday Afternoon—He Receives Many Visitors.

New London, Conn., November 5. — Captain Paul Koenig, of the German submarine merchantman Deutschland, which arrived here late last Wednesday, indicated today that he would make his homeward dash next Friday—probably late in the afternoon.

Stevedores worked steadily all day, loading a cargo of crude rubber and nickel; the Deutshland's crew was engaged in overhauling the engines and five mechanics from a local shipyard practically completed the work of tightening rivets on the craft's bow, which had become loosened by tossing in the high seas on the way over. Captain Koenig today visited the government submarine base, and later conducted Commander Stirling and his officers through the Deutschland.

Fourteen members of the German embassy at Washington came here today and greeted the Deutschland's captain and crew aboard the liner Willehad.

Religious services were held on the Willehad for members of the submarine's crew this afternoon. Rev. O. E. Heydenreich, of Hartford, prayed for their safe return to the fatherland.

$9,000,000 in Securities.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 5. — That the cargo of the German merchant submarine Deutschland, now at New London, amounted to approximately $10,000,000, was announced here tonight by James L. McGovern, collector of customs for Connecticut. Of this sum he said $9,000,000 was represented by stocks, bonds and other securities, shipped from Germany for the purpose of strengthening German credit in the United States. About $1,000,000 of the value of the cargo, Mr. McGovern said, consisted of dyestuffs, medicines and chemicals. A very small proportion was represented by diamonds and other precious stones, he declared.

USUAL DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY IS EXPECTED IN VIRGINIA

Richmond, Va., November 5. — Virginia, always overwhelmingly Democratic, is expected to roll up the usual majority for Wilson on Tuesday. With all ten congressional districts, except the Ninth, nominally Democratic, and with no state officers to be elected, the campaign has been quiet. In the Ninth E. Lee Trinkle, backed by the state organization, has made a spirited fight to defeat C. Bascom Slemp, the Republican incumbent. The close of the campaign finds them both claiming victory. In the Fifth district B. A. Davis, Republican, hopes to unseat Congressman Edward W. Saunders, but the Democrats are confident of success, although several counties in the district cast Republican majorities. The only other contest of importance is in the Second, where Luther B. Way, Republican, is running for Congressman E. E. Holland's seat. The Republicans have a candidate in every district except the Third, where A. J. Montague is unopposed. Senator Claude A. Swanson is also unopposed for re-election.

MRS. J. C. COUNCILL MEETS DEATH BENEATH A. C. L. TRAIN

Suffolk, Va., Nov. 5. — In a collision this morning at the Washington street crossing of the Atlantic Coast Line railway, between a seven passenger automobile and a freight train, Mrs. Lucile Haggard Councill, wife of J. Clifton Councill, prominent in Princess Anne county, was thrown beneath the wheels of the freight train and horribly mangled. Mr. Councill was driving the car, but escaped serious injury.

STATEMENT IS ISSUED BY SAMUEL GOMPERS

Is Addressed to the Working Men and Citizens.

Says There Is Scheme Afoot to Spring a Canard Upon Voters at Eleventh Hour—Urges Support of Mr. Wilson

New York, Nov. 5.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued here tonight the following statement addressed to the working men and citizens of the United States:

"As predicted by me a few days ago, there is some scheme to spring a canard upon you when it will be too late to disprove and repudiate the falsehood and fictious allegations and declarations.

"The information comes to me that a pretended labor leader has secured some fake declarations of a few supposedly labor organizations attacking the character and the policy of the labor representation committee of the American Federation of Labor and that they are to be published as advertisements in the newspapers of the country tomorrow morning.

"The American Federation of Labor has without a dissenting voice or vote, proclaimed the political policy to stand by the friends of labor and justice and to defeat its enemies.

"In this campaign Woodrow Wilson stands for all that is true to labor, justice, patriotism, freedom and humanity.

"The false friends of labor will fail in their purpose to deceive."

ITALIANS CAPTURE NEARLY 9,000 PRISONERS IN 4 DAYS

Rome, No. 5, (via London).—Italian troops fighting on the Austro-Italian front in the last four days have taken prisoner 270 Austro-Hungarian officers and 8,722 men says the statement issued by the Italian war department today. Since the Italian offensive started August 6 on the Julian front the Italians have captured 40,365 Austro-Hungarians, including 1,008 officers.

Austro-Hungarian forces yesterday directed five successive attacks against the Italian positions at the so-called observatory on the slopes of Cima Boeohe, in the Travignoin valley, it is officially announced. All the attacks were driven off with heavy losses and an Italian counter attack at the point of the bayonet dispersed the Austro-Hungarians, who left numerous bodies on the field.

WILL URGE APPEAL FOR WAR SUFFERERS IN EUROPE

Long Branch, N. J., Nov. 5.—President Wilson will be asked tomorrow to include in his annual Thanksgiving proclamation an appeal to the people of the United States to assist the war sufferers in Europe. The request is to be made by Ignace Paderewski, the pianist, and Charles S. MacFarland, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Mr. Wilson is expected to issue his proclamation within a few days.

EMBARRASSING SITUATION IN GREECE MAY BE RELIEVED

Katerina, Greece, Nov. 5, (via London).—A French battalion arrived here today to occupy the town. It is believed that the Greek Venizelista troops will depart immediately and thus solve the embarrassing situation which has arisen as a result of the conflict between the Royalist and Venizelistas.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 5.—It is generally admitted that the larger part of the 400,000 votes in Texas will be cast for Wilson next Tuesday, but Republicans say that a change of sentiment in counties adjacent to Mexico will increase the Republican vote of 1912 by one-third.

CAMPAIGN IN THE SOUTH HAS BEEN OF MILD NATURE

Republicans Are Claiming Eleven Congressmen—Hope for Two From North Carolina.

LIVELY FIGHT IN FLORIDA

Two Democrats There Running for Governor, in Addition to Republican Nominee.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 5.—With the electoral vote of the South conceded to the President, interest in Tuesday's elections in that section centers in the Florida gubernatorial fight between the regular Democratic candidate and another Democrat running independently, and the Congressional contests in the few districts which are not safely Democratic.

W. V. Knott, who was declared the Democratic candidate for governor of Florida, after a re-count of second choice primary votes in 20 counties, is opposed by Sydney J. Catts, original holder of the nomination, whose name appears on the ballot by petition of certain Democrats and as Prohibition candidate as well. This has constituted almost the only lively feature of the campaign in the Southern States.

Certainty of election is conceded to the six Democratic candidates for United States Senate from Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia. Likewise, little if any opposition, will be offered to 92 candidates for Congress from the Southern states Kentucky not included. The Republicans contend they will elect congressmen from eleven districts, although they now hold only four. The Democrats concede the Republicans only two districts in Tennessee and express themselves confident of wresting from the Republicans the single districts they hold in Virginia and North Carolina and from the Progressives their one district in Louisiana. The Republicans are hopeful of gaining two districts in Tennessee, three in Virginia and two in North Carolina.

NORTH CAROLINA DEMOCRATS EXPECT USUAL MAJORITIES

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 5.—The political wind up in North Carolina indicates that there will be the usual majorities for the Democratic State ticket, headed by Thomas W. Bickett for governor, and the Democratic National ticket, these in the neighborhood of 40,000 votes.

The Republicans make claims of carrying the Fifth, Eighth and Tenth congressional districts, while the Democrats claim all with a close fight in the Tenth, where J. J. Britt, Republican incumbent, is opposed by Zebulon Weaver, Democrat. It is expected that the majority in that district either way will be small.

The registration in the State is a record one, and the indications are that with good weather there will be an extra large vote polled.

STEAMER KROSFOND IN HAVRE ROADS WITH CARGO ON FIRE

Danish Steamer Esbern Snare Abandoned at Sea on Fire.

London, November 5. — The Danish steamer Esbern Snare has been abandoned at sea on fire. Her crew was saved and landed at St. Michaels, Azores.

The Norwegian steamer Krosfond is in Havre roads with her cargo on fire.

The Krosfond left Wilmington, N. C. October 19, for Havre, with a cargo of 5,715 bales of cotton, valued at $515,000, which was loaded at the Champion Compress by Alex. Sprunt & Sons, cotton exporters.

The Esbern Snare was a vessel of 1,772 tons, net. Available shipping data shows that she sailed from Pensacola, September 18th, for Montevideo.

GUARDSMEN ON THE BORDER CLOSING THEIR CAMPAIGN

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 5.—A campaign minus orators, parades or other demonstrations will come to an end in the National Guard camps on the border next Tuesday, when soldiers of the South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and other state units will cast their ballots under the supervision of state election commissioners. The Mexican issue is dominent with most of the men and in its several aspects has been threshed out in the privacy of their tents.

VIOLENT ARTILLERY ACTIVITY BETWEEN SOMME AND ANCRE

Berlin, Nov. 5 (via Sayville)—Artillery activity of great violence in the region north of the rivers Somme and Ancre, in France, was resumed yesterday, according to the official statement issued today at German army headquarters. Anglo-French attacks near the Ancre and north of Courcelette, in the region of Guedecourt, and northwest of Sailley Saillesil, were repulsed, the statement says.

FATE OF THE AMERICANS AT PARRAL IS NOT KNOWN

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 5.—Parral has been abandoned by the Carranza garrison under command of General Luis Herrera, according to passengers arriving in Juarez tonight by train from Chihuahua City. Nothing could be learned, however, of the Americans there, they said.

GERMAN LINES AT 2 POINTS SMASHED HARD BY FRENCH

They Gain North of the Somme, and Occupy Village of Damloup in Verdun Region.

BRITISH ALSO MAKE GAINS

Violent Fighting Continues on the Austro-Italian Front and Also in Rumanian Theatre.

The French troops in the Somme region of France and northeast of Verdun have again smashed the German lines hard. North of the Somme between Les Beoufs and Sailly-Saillisel to the east of the latter place and on the St. Pierre-Vaast wood sector, important gains were made in violent fighting which proceeded through Sunday, according to the French official communication. The attack of the St. Pierre-Vaast wood which was made from three sides simultaneously, netted the French three trenches on the northern side of the entire German position on the southern outskirts of the wood.

To the north, despite the stormy weather, the British over a front of a thousand yards captured the hills in the neighborhood of the Butte De Warlen court.

Keeping up their offensive in the Verdun region the French have been enabled to occupy the entire village of Vaux and also the town of Damloup, which is situated a mile to the east of Fort Vaux.

Violent fighting continues to mark the operations in the region south of Gorizia, where the Italians are endeavoring to break the Austrian lines and advance on Triest. Fresh gains have been made by King Victor Immanuel's men on the Carso plateau, south of the Oppacchiasella-Castagnievizza road, and to the south of this region they are alternately bombarding the Austrian positions at Jamaiano and throwing heavy infantry effectives against the town. The Vienna war office esays all the attacks at Jamaiano thus far have broken down in front of the Austrian line, the Italians suffering heavy casualties.

In the Transylvanian Alps the Austro-Germans and Rumanians are still at deadly grips, with both sides claiming successes at various points. Berlin records the capture by the Teutonic Allies of positions in the Phahova valley, while Bucharest asserts that the pursuit of the Teutons in the Jiul valley continues.

There is still no news forthcoming from the Dubrudja region of Rumania shedding light on the situation there. Both Constanza and Managalia, ports on the Black Sea held by the forces of the Central Powers, have again been shelled by Russian warships.

In Macedonia fighting continues along the Cerna river, but no important changes in terrain have taken place.

Small gains for the Germans on the Russian front south of Dvinsk and in Galicia and the Carpathian mountains for the Russians are recorded in the Berlin and Petrograd official communications.

A hereditary monarchy and a constitutional government is to be established in Poland, according to a manifesto issued at Warsaw and Lublin Sunday.

RUSSIAN WARSHIPS SHELL PORTS OCCUPIED BY TEUTONS

Berlin, Nov. 5(via Sayville)—Russain war ships yesterday shelled the Rumanian seaports of Constanza and Mangalia, now occupied by troops under Field Marshal Von Mackensen, says an official statement issued today at German army headquarters. Coast artillery and aeroplane squadrons chased the hostile ships away.

In the eastern theatre troops under Prince Leopold of Bavaria yesterday captured from the Russians the village of Mosheiki to the east of Goduzishki. More than 60 Russians were captured and several machine guns and mine throwers were taken.

Another statement says that Rosca Height, southeast of Alischanz, on the fronties of Rumania and Transylvania, which Rumanian troops captured November 3, was re-conquered yesterday by Austro-German forces. The Teutons also stormed the Rumanian positions at Ciabucetul Baiului, in the Prahova valley. Yesterday 1,747 Rumanians were taken prisoner and eight cannon and 20 machine guns were captured by the Teuton forces.

ALLIED LOSSES IN SOMME FIGHT PLACED AT 600,000

Berlin, Nov. 5. (via Sayville)—A report issued from the German army headquarters of the Somme region is published in the German newspapers. It says:

"The attacking powers without any doubt conceived and planned a battle of the greatest style, destined to change radically the general strategical situation on the war theatres of three continents. What is the result? An inflection of the unshakable German front, hardly noticeable even on maps of the largest scale.

"The gain of this inflection, according to conservative calculation, cost about 600,000 men, a loss that means 2,000 men for each square kilometre of terrain transformed into a desert. The enemy has not even obtained the conquest of Peronne and Pappume."

London, Nov. 5.—Lloyds announces that the British steamers Clan Leslie, 3,937 tons gross, and Statesman, 6,153 tons gross, have been sunk.

POSSE CLASHES WITH INDUSTRIAL WORKERS AND FIVE ARE KILLED

Steamer Carrying I. W. W. Expedition to Everett, Wash., Forced Back from Wharf.

AT LEAST 40 WERE WOUNDED

Workers Announced It was Their Intention to Bring About "Order" in Everett.

STRIKE CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Steamer Returns to Seattle With Dead and Injured Aboard.

Everett, Wash., Nov. 5.—At least five persons were killed and 40 wounded in a fight at the Everett city wharf between 250 members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who came here from Seattle on the steamer Verona, and a posse of 150 citizens, headed by Sheriff Don McRae. Sheriff McRae is among the seriously wounded.

The number of casualties aboard the Verona is not known here. After the shooting, in which about 1,000 shots were exchanged, the Verona turned around and started back to Seattle. Many men were seen to fall on the deck of the steamer and others, panic stricken, jumped overboard. Some were taken from the water, but others disappeared and it is believed they were drowned.

Citizens Form Posse.

The Verona reached Everett shortly before 2 o'clock. The coming of the party of invaders had been announced in messages sent to Everett from Seattle headquarters. A call to Industrial Workers of the World members from all over the state had been issued earlier in the week and the citizens of Everett at a meeting held Saturday night, planned to meet the invaders and deny them privilege of landing.

When the Verona reached the city wharf, Sheriff McRae, who was backed by a posse of deputy sheriffs and citizens, stepped forward and informed the men on the boat that they would not be permitted to land. One of the men, evidently spokesman for the party, began arguing with the sheriff and then made a speech.

Battle Begins.

Apparently as a signal, the man dropped his hand and armed men on the steamer opened fire on the posse assembled on the wharf. The first man to fall was Sheriff McRae, seriously wounded.

One man was killed instantly and in a moment the crowd on shore was panic stricken. Deputy sheriffs on the wharf quickly rallied their forces, however, and returned the fire of the invaders on the Verona.

Men on the wharf and on the boat were seen to fall and the Verona immediately backed out of the dock and started back toward Seattle.

Trouble Brewing Several Months

The trouble between the Industrial Workers of the World and the authorities at Everett has been on for several months and was the outgrowth of a strike of shingle weavers here. After several minor outbreaks of violence during the strike, Sheriff McRae organized the citizens committee and expelled all members of the Industrial Workers of the World from Everett. On several occasions, small parties of men have attempted to enter Everett but have been turned back by the sheriff. Last Monday 45 members of the L. W. W., from Seattle, were met at the wharf by the citizen's posse, loaded into automobiles and escorted to a point south of town, where they were liberated to leave.

2,000 Volunteers Called.

Last week the "Industrial Workers," the official organ of the Industrial Workers of the World, in Seattle, announced that the forcible expulsion of men from Everett must be avenged and called for 2,000 volunteers to go to Everett to establish the right of free speech.

"The fight must be won," said the paper, "as the whole future of the Industrial Workers of the World in this section depends upon the outcome. We want all foot loose rebels in the west to center their atention upon Everett and the trust mill and logging properties. Get on the job and use your judgment."

STEAMER RETURNS TO SEATTLE WITH FOUR DEAD, 20 WOUNDED

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—The steamer Verona, which carried the Industrial Workers of the World expedition to Everett, returned here early tonight with four dead and 20 injured on board.

The Verona left Seattle about noon with 250 men aboard. One hundred and fifty members of the Industrial Workers of the World who could not find room on the Verona boarded the steamer Calista, which left after the first board had departed. Both vessels were chartered for an "excursion."

Headquarters Seized

The fight was over and the Verona was on her way back long before the Calista approached Everett. The two steamers met at Mukilteo, four miles south of Everett and came back to Seattle together. Policemen were placed in charge of the Industrial Workers' headquarters on Washington street, and a large force of officers was sent to the water front to meet the Verona.

Sheriff Robert Hodge sent four automobile loads of deputies to Richmond Beach to arrest any members of the

POLISH KINGDOM IS NOW RESTORED

Provinces of Warsaw and Lublin Will Once More Enjoy Independent Government.

PROCLAMATION IS ISSUED

Joint Action Taken by Germany and Austria-Hungary—Was a "Great and Momentous Historic Event."

Berlin, Nov. 5, (via Sayville)—"Polish provinces occupied by troops of the Central Powers," says the Overseas News Agency," were the scene today of a great and momentous historic event. Germany and Austria-Hungary, by joint action, proclaimed Warsaw and Lublin the kingdom of Poland and re-established the right of the Polish nation to control its own destinies, to live an independent national life and to govern itself by chosen representatives of the nation.

"A few days ago a Polish delegation had called upon the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Von Bethman-Hollweg. Its members were representative Poles of all classes, all parties, all ranks of society and all creeds. They transmitted to the German government the wishes of the Polish nation which now have been granted to them.

"Thus the ancient kingdom of Poland from which in the past came famous rulers like the Jagellones (a dynasty founded by Jagello, which reigned in Poland from 1386 to 1572) and glorious soldiers like the great Sobieski (John III., king of Poland in 1674-1696) is now resurrected to new life. The Poles are free from Russian oppresion no more to be trodden under the heels of the Cossacks. The liberty that had been destroyed a century ago on Russian instigation now is restored. The rule of the knout has been abolished. Poland has been given back to western civilization."

PRESIDENT SOON TO BEGIN ON CONGRESS PROGRAMME

Long Branch, N. J., Nov. 5.—President Wilson has completed his campaign activities and will rest here tomorrow, awaiting the outcome of the election Tuesday. Regardless of the result, it was said by officials here, he will soon begin to map out a program for the session of Congress beginning next month. This program includes railroad legislation and a bill to allow American exporters to form common selling agencies abroad.

The President showed deep interest today in newspaper accounts of the closing of the campaign and read a number of polls collected for him at the executive offices. It was said he was pleased with the outlook.

CAMPAIGN IN OHIO EQUALS THAT OF 1896 IN INTEREST

Columbus, O., No. 5.—Not since the campaign in 1896 has there been so much interest in a political campaign in Ohio and it is estimated that more than 1,200,000 votes will be cast in this state next Tuesday.

Republican State Chairman Hatfield today predicted Hughes, Willis for governor and Herrick for Senator, will carry Ohio by "from 60,000 to 100,000" while Democratic State Chairman Finley claims Wilson will have 100,000 plurality in the re-election of Senator Pomorene, the election of former Governor Cox and the entire Democratic ticket.

REPUBLICAN SPLIT GIVES DELAWARE DEMOCRAS HOPE

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 5.—Factional differences in the Republican party add interest to Tuesday's election in Delaware, but leaders of that party say they will have a plurality of about 2,000. Democrats are sanguine of carrying the state for Wilson. Senator Dupont, a candidate for re-election, is opposed b yformer Representative H. R. Burton.

Havana, Nov. 5.—Dr. Juan L. Montalvo, assistant secretary of the interior, announced tonight that, according to figures received by him, the re-election of President Mario G. Menocal over his liberal opponent, Dr. Alfredo Zayas, was assured.

IN THE REALM OF SPORTS

Defeat of Sailors Was Big Surprise

WASHINGTON AND LEE'S VICTORY DEMONSTRATES POSSIBILITIES IN SOUTHERN TEAMS—REVIEW OF THE GAMES

New York, Nov. 5.—Washington and Lee's impressive victory over the Navy eleven at Annapolis Saturday was one of the big surprises of the week-end football play, and it demonstrated, by reason of the fact that the Generals only last week had been held to a tie by Georgia Tech, that Southern teams no longer may be held too lightly by the big Eastern machines.

Had it been necessary it is probable Washington and Lee could have made additional touchdowns, but the winners elected to play defensive football after their early scoring. In view of the wide range of the victors' play it is likely that the Navy coaches will be able to correct weaknesses not heretofore suspected in the Middies' game.

Virginia, the only other Southern team to invade the East, gave the Harvard squad little more than an afternoon's practice. The Crimson used many substitutes and never was in danger.

Yale was particularly fortunate in defeating the strong Colgate aggregation. The team from Hamilton outplayed the Blue but the breaks of the game and a remarkable exhibition of defensive strength at a critical period swing victory to the Elis.

The defeat of Notre Dame by the Army was extremely gratifying to the Soldiers, especially as they used almost exclusively the overhead tactics introduced at West Point by the Indianans so effectively three years ago. The victory demonstrated that the Soldiers ar erounding out one of the strongest teams at West Point in recent years. For all round brilliancy the Dartmouth-Syracuse game was the feature of the day. The speed and dash of Dartmouth was the winning factor, but Syracuse made the game thrilling at all stages.

Bucknell was too weak to bring out anything in Princeton's repertoire, and Cornell and Pennsylvania ,though they came through with victories over Cargie Tech and LaFayette, respectively, showing that they still were teams in the making.

St. Louis, Nov. 5.—A Democratic plurality of 50,000 in Missouri is predicted by leaders of that party in this state. The Republicans say Hughes will outrun Wilson by 25,000 and will carry Speaker Clark's congressional district.

Three Teams Left In Race For Title

AUBURN, VANDERBILT AND GEORGIA TECH NOW WILL FIGHT FOR SOUTHERN FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

Atlanta, Nov. 5.—The race for the football championship of the South yesterday, was narrowed really to three teams—Auburn, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech—when Ducote, who never had been credited with any great kicking ability, booted the ball over the goal posts for the score that eliminated Georgia and kept Auburn in the fight. There was little choice between the teams before the game, but that Auburn should win by a field goal, kicked by an "unknown" in that department, was considered unusual.

This puts Auburn high in the race, in the opinion of most observers, supplying one thing that has been lacking in the Plainsmen's offense. Vanderbilt, which has show a powerful aggregation, plays Auburn November 18, and should the Plainsmen win the game between Auburn and Georgia Tech here, Thanksgiving Day may decide the championship.

Alabama and Tennessee are undefeated and technically in the race, but many believe their victorious days are about over. Alabama plays Georgia Tech here next Saturday and Tennessee plays Vanderbilt at Knoxville.

In the two big contests of yesterday, both Alabama and Auburn won by the close margins, but accounts agreed that they outplayed their opponents. The Auburn tackles and ends showed great ability to follow the ball by recovering most of the fumbles which marred Georgia's play. Alabama made long gains on Sewanee but was unable to produce the final punch needed to score a touchdown until the last period.

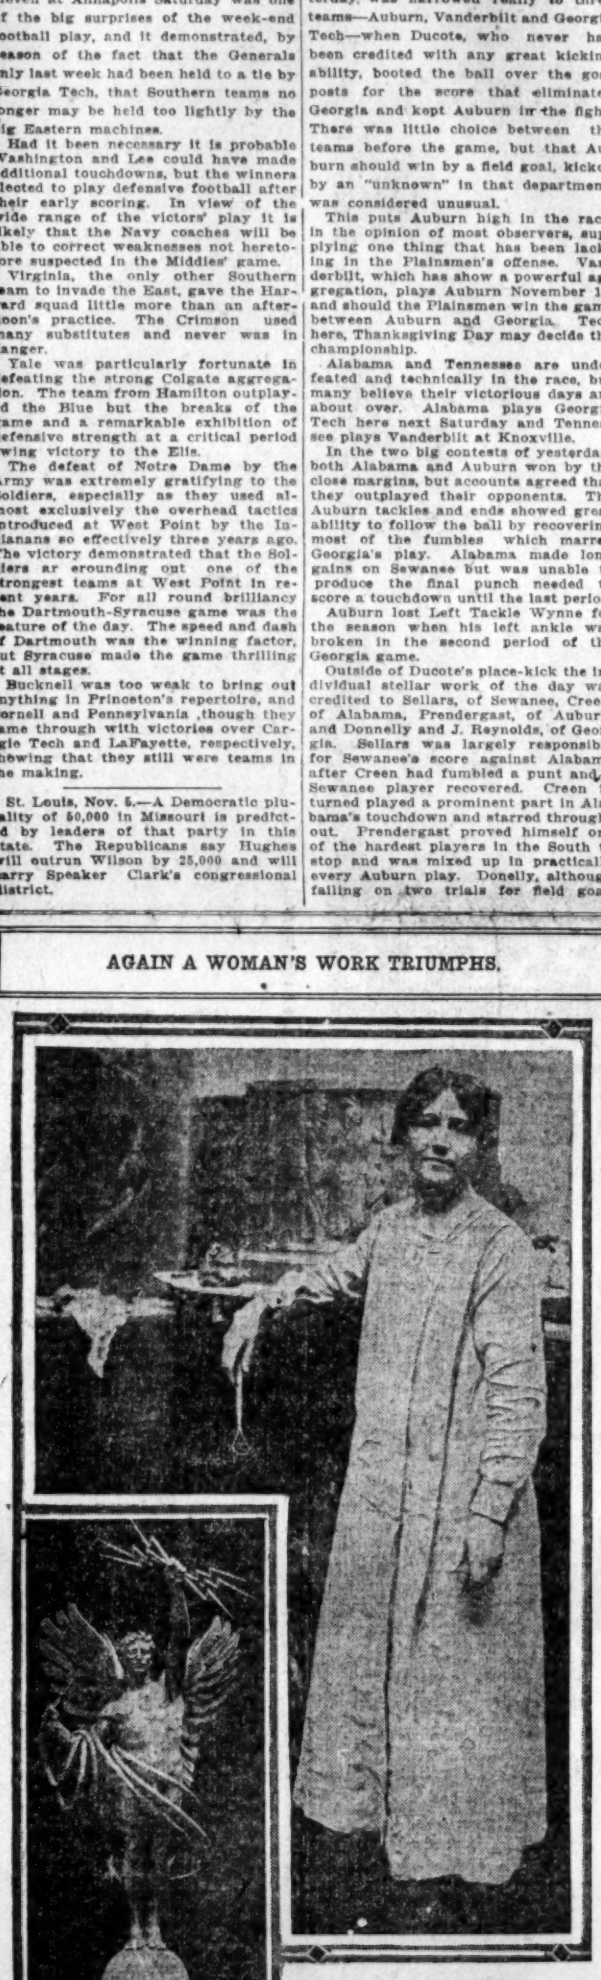
Auburn lost Left Tackle Wynne for the season when his left ankle was broken in the second period of the Georgia game.

Outside of Ducote's place-kick the individual stellar work of the day was credited to Sellars, of Sewanee, Creen, of Alabama, Prendergast, of Auburn, and Donnelly and J. Reynolds, of Georgia. Sellars was largely responsible for Sewanee's score against Alabama after Creen had fumbled a punt and a Sewanee player recovered. Creen in turned played a prominent part in Alabama's touchdown and starred throughout. Prendergast proved himself one of the hardest players in the South to stop and was mixed up in practically every Auburn play. Donelly, although failing on two trials for field goal, served Georgia several times by his punting. J. Reynolds was practically the only Georgia player who could gain consistently.

Chattanooga surprised many of holding Tennessee to the close score of 12 to 7. Tennessee's inability to break up Chattanooga's forward passing and Chattanooga's ability to hold whenever their goal line was in danger, kept the Volunteers behind for three periods.

North Carolina went down to defeat before Virginia Polytechnic Institute, which gave indications of having one of the strongest elevens in the Virginia-North Carolina section by holding Yale to nineteen points recently.

AGAIN A WOMAN'S WORK TRIUMPHS.



Evelyn Beatrice Longman, sculptor, and the statue that won her latest of several prize competitions. Long after the present crowds have ceased passing, and the children of today have taken their places in the busy mart of tomorrow, high in the swirl of storm and the blaze of sun as the seasons pass, the winged figure of the "Genius of Trans-Communication" will stand poised in lasting testimony of the modelling skill of a young girl. Evelyn Beatrice Longman, born in a cabin in Winchester, Adams county, Ohio. From the little cabin in Ohio, where she lived three years, Miss Longman went to Illinois. She started to earn her living in an office. Then she began painting and met Lorado Taft. Realizing she had talent he put her into the art institute in Chicago, with work in the library to help pay her way. The second summer she was placed in charge of the summer schools there. Later she came to New York. She is represented in the doors of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, in the bas-relief of Henry Bacon, the philanthropist, which is in the Charities Building, New York. The memorial to Senator Allison, in front of the capital at Des Moines, Ia., the doorway entering into the library at Wellesley College, the "Victory" on the dome of Festival Hall, St. Louis, the Timothy Murphy monument at Middleburg and the memorial to Mrs. Ryle, donor of the public library at Paterson are only a few of things she has done. She has now won the prize for the figure placed on the tower of the new Western Union Building, downtown, New York.

MARY, BELOVED POLICE MASCOT IS VICTIM OF A TRAGIC FINISH

Body Horribly Mangled by Murderous Bull Dog—Lingered 12 Hours.

"Ho the police men are shaking
And they'll need their beer today
After burying the station kitty in the morning."

There was gloom in the police station yesterday. A melancholy air pervaded the whole building, from the chief's private sanctum to the sergeant's desk where the usual game of solitaire was not in evidence. For once at least the usual atmosphere of joviality and good cheer was lacking. Eagle eyed plainsclothesmen lounged dispairingly around the lobby while the blue clad regulars gazed drearily into space, or morosely paced the floor of the station house .

The cause was simple. The station cat was dead. Her life had been torn from her faithful form by the teeth of a ferocious bulldog with a criminal record. The shadows of a dull autumn evening were just beginning to throw their lengths over Princess street when a gray haired officer with a catch in his voice gave the story of the tragedy to a newspaper man. While he spoke the yellow incandescents in the room began to burn, forming with the shadows of the gathering twilight a weird effect, while a kitten, now motherless and lonesome, mewed dismally from somewhere back in the gloom.

In a low even monotone the venerable officer told of how a bulldog had been arrested Friday afternoon on a charge of assaulting another dog with intent to kill. He was confined in the station, and later in the day was released on bond in the custody of his owner, As man and dog passed out of the station house, Mary, the beloved pet of the officers, lay sunning on the cement ledge just outside the door.

No sooner was the dog's leash dropped ,than with a fiendish snarl he darted for the cat. Too late she realized her danger and before she could leap to safety, the demon was upon her. While the horrified officers looked on, the terrible fangs of the murderer chewed eight of her nine lives away before the dog was beaten off.

That was Friday. Suffering intense agony, the mangled feline survived the night but when the day force arrived Saturday morning, her ninth life was ebbing fast away. With a stab in their breasts the tender hearted guardians of the peace watched their faithful mascot pass away just as the sun, rising in the heavens, marked the beginning of a perfect autumn day.

It was over. For the last time the sorrowing officers gathered around their dead pet and paid her their last respects. Then the noble hearted colt officer, J. J. Moore, in the role of chief pallbearer, bore the remains away to begin their last journey to the city incinerator, where they were cremated.

The officer ceased his recital to the reporter and the silence in the room was painful. After a little coaxing, he consented to give a brief synopsis of the martyred cat's life, at least that part of it with which he was familiar. Her name, he said, was Mary, a name that has adorned the pages of the world's solemn history, graced the chorus of the most popular songs, and caused many a fond recollection in the hearts of thousands of wanderers over the face of the globe.

Her age at its nearest reckoning was at least three years, the greater part of which was spent as the mascot of the police department. Of her surviving relatives, the officer said that he knew at least 30 children, of whom the little orphan, who now succeeds to the position of mascot, is one.

It is little wonder that that the officers hated to lose their friend. She was known to each and every individual who has had occasion to visit the station regularly, and was friend of all. There is no doubt that she has now passed to that feline elysium, where in the words of the poet, "mice concurrent trans the floor, in numero, duo tres or more," and there is a host of mourning friends, who trust that she will rest well in that peace and quietude which she so passionately loved, so ardently longed for, and so tragically secured.

While no information could be secured as to the erection of a tablet to her memory, a reliable rumor says that this is the case, and that on it will be inscribed: "Mary sedit ab a hole, intenti she cum omni soul, predere rats."

LIEUT. MARBURG WILL SAIL

Passport Refusal is Not to Stop Aviator and Wife.

Lieut. Theodore Marburg, Jr., son of Theodore Marburg, formerly United States minister to Belgium, is expected to sail tomorrow from New York to rejoin the Franco-British Aviation Corps, despite the fact that the State Department has refused him a passport, says Friday's Baltimore Sun. Lieutenant Marburg and his wife, formerly the Baroness Geselle de Vavario, of Belgium, are now in New York. She will sail with him. It is reported that they expect to take passage on a Holland-American liner.

The application for a passport was made on October 26. Last Wednesday the State Department refused it, on the ground that any American who fights for a foreign country expatriates himself when required to take the oath of allegiance to that country. Great British is said to require such an oath from all of its fighting men.

However, State Department officials declared that there was nothing in the American laws to prevent Lieutenant and Mrs. Marburg from sailing for Europe.

DR. SWOPE RESIGNS

Forced By Ill Health to Give Up Pastorate of All Souls Church

(Special Star Correspondence)

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 5.—Dr. Rodney Swope, rector of All Souls church, the Episcopal church erected and maintained by the late George W. Vanderbilt, has tendered his resignation, effective December 31, or sooner, if the congregation can secure another rector before that time. Dr. Swope, who has been the rector at All Souls for the past twenty years, gives ill health as the reason for his action, stating that his physicians have advised him to give up the work. Dr. Swope was the first pastor of All Souls church, coming here from Wheeling W. Va., at the request of Mr. Vanderbilt, and has remained in charge ever since that time. He has become a power for good in the community of Biltmore, the model village also built by Mr. Vanderbilt, and has had charge of the educational work on the Biltmore estate in addition to his other duties. His resignation will be accepted with regret, although the members of the congregation know that he must quit active work. Dr. Swope will remain at Biltmore, and will take active part in other matters pertaining to community affairs.

CAPE FEAR APT'S. MAN SAYS HE IS 5 YEARS YOUNGER

J. S. Russ Learned Secret When Friend Allowed Him to Sample His Tanlac Bottle. Now He's Well and Happy.

"I found out how good Tanlac was from a friend by sampling several doses from his Tanlac bottle and, of course, got my own then. And, I'm glad I did, for I feel strohger and five years younger, already." The speaker was J. S. Russ, Chief Attendant at the Cape Fear Apartments, this city.

"Indigestion and constipation troubled me for the past two years," Mr. Russ continued. "I tried various remedies, but none of them seemed to help me at all. I found myself in a very run-down condition, subject to dull headaches in the morning, with a bad taste in my mouth and no appetite. Of course, I was weak and felt bad. Almost everything I ate seemed to disagree with me, and, on eating only a few mouthfuls I would begin to swell, and my stomach felt as If I had eaten a peach. I also had dull, aching pains in my back, and didn't sleep well at all."

Here Mr. Russ smiled and added quickly; "What a difference now. My digestion is good, I am no longer troubled with gas pains or headaches. I sleep well, and am no longer constipated. I gladly recommend Tanlac for it is the best remedy I ever saw, and I advise anyone troubled with indigestion to give it a trial."

Genuine Tanlac is sold in Wilmington exclusively at the Bellamy Drug Store, where its merits are explained daily to health seekers by the Tanlac Man; Acme, Acme Store Co.; Burgaw, C. L. THEATRICAL

The Victoria management broadly claims for this week the greatest show of its kind that has ever played in Wilmington and seems prepared to deliver the goods to back up this statement, judging from advance reports on Reilly's Famous Globe Trotters, who are booked to present three great musical comedy shows during fair week in Wilmington.

Reilly's Globe Trotters, in the first place, is the biggest company which has ever played the Victoria, carrying an all-star aggregation of thirteen artists, also carrying their own musical director, wardrobe mistress, etc., after the manner of the big regular legitimate musical comedy companies.

At least four big and extraordinary feature drawing cards are included with Reilly's Globe Trotters, headed by the famous Empire Quarette, the best known bunch of harmony singers now on the road, with a long record of spectacular and successful appearances in the big time circuits. Ernest Linwood, the very best blackface comedian that has ever struck Wilmington, will be another strong drawing card, as Linwood is well known here, as well as in all parts of the country. Harold Paite, the bass soloist, who was a Wilmington boy before he broke into the big time vaudeville circuits, has an enviable record, and Reilly's Globe Trotters were fortunate to get him for this season. Then Fred Kramer, one of the most famous Dutch comedy artists on the stage, will also come in for his share of the approval of the Victoria crowds.

The Globe Trotters carry absolutely the best looking, best dressed and best working chorus that has ever appeared in Wilmington, and it is by far the largest that has been seen at the Victoria.

The free privilege will be extended ladies tonight, under usual conditions, and those who desire seats for the first evening performance had best come early.

Goldberg Cartoons—Royal Today

Rube Goldberg, known to every reader of newspapers, is with us today, and at the Royal presents the first release of his great namiated cartoons, the greatest cartoons ever created for screen presentation. "Rube," the $50,000 a year cartoonist of the New York Evening Mail, whose work has appeared in thousands of nepswapers all over America, creator of "Foolish Questions," "Father Was Right," "I'm the Guy," and other equally famous cartoon characters, has created a new one, the "Boob Weekly," for the screen, being burlesques on current news from nowheres in particular and done in typical Goldberg style. These great features will be presented as extra attractions, every other Monday at the Royal, and will cost Royal patrons nothing except the trouble to get to the theatre promptly on time, as the great cartoon feature will start the big two reel episode to quicken the pulse and make the red blood flow faster through your veins. It is a typical American drama, for those who like the dash and vim of Americans who do things, and the latest great chapter, better than any before, is today's headliner at the Bijou.

But as we started to say, this is not all that is one to attract your attention today. There's a magnificent three-reel Biograph thriller, a society drama with a tense, vital plot that is seldom equalled. It is entitled "Paths That Crossed" and is a stirring drama dealing with a faithful wife, a philandering husband who becomes infatuated with an actress. For a generation it takes the story until we come to the daughter of the couple, now grown into a lovely womanhood, and the son of an intimate friend of the actress. Theirs were the paths that finally crossed, furnishing one of the most novel and interesting features of the season. It's a great five-reel bill today.

Apache Dance at Grand.

The far-famed Apache Dance, which was introduced to America by Maurice, the internationally popular dancer, will be one of the dances which Maurice and Florence Walton will perform on the screen when they make their photoplay debut in the Famous Players-Paramount Picture "The Quest of Life." Maurice learned this dance in Paris and created a sensation when he first showed it to New York. In addition to this famous dance, the popular dancers will introduce other delightful numbers—some of which have never been seen on the stage. But that is not all—there is a big dramatic theme and no little spectacular work in "The Quest of Life" which is the feature at the Grand today.

Maurice and Florence Walton have probably done more to bring the dance to its present high state of perfection than any other two in the world. It was they who originated and introduced the Argentine Tango, "The Dance of Death," "The Apache Dance" and many others, all of which will be seen in this superb special Paramount feature at the Grand today.

The management wishes to assure patrons that had this feature been booked from an outside source, admission would have been at least twenty-five cents for its showing and it was only through the close affiliations between the Grand management and the Paramount people that they were able to book it on their regular Paramount programme, and thus give patrons all the advantage. At that, less scrupulous managers all over the country are presenting it as a special release and increasing prices for it. Grand patrons should appreciate this fact today, and not discredit this great production merely because prices have not been raised.

serial superior, "Liberty," in which darling Marie Walcamp, with Jack Holt, Eddie Polo and Betram Grasby are making such a spectacular success all over the country. It is creating a sensation everywhere, and not alone in Wilmington, but in every town where it is being shown, the crowds are flocking to see it as they have never gone to see a serial production before. There is a dash and a vim, a glorious air of patriotism which fascinates and appeals to every lover of motion picture thrills. There is something new in each show each time, before the feature goes on.

Today the regular Triangle bill will be presented a mommoth five-reel Thos. H. Ince production, "The Bugle Call," in which this brilliant dramatic star is supported by beautiful Anna Lehr, in one of the most thrilling military and war dramas ever filmed. It is a story of the plains—of the days when Indian attacks were a real menace, and goes with a dash and a vim all the way through that will keep you on the edge of your seat.

B. F. WARD, OF ENFIELD, DIES IN HOSPITAL AT ROCKY MOUNT

Two Deaths and Three Injuries From Auto Accidents During Week.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Rocky Mount, N. C., Nov. 5.—With the announcement of the death of B. F. Ward, aged 24, of Enfield, which has just occurred in a local hospital, there is recorded the heaviest toll from automobiles in the history of Edgecombe county. Two deaths and three injuries is the week's casualty list. Mr. Ward was injured on Monday night near Leggets when the exhaust pipe from the engine on the car of Mr. B. O. Bobbitt, in which they were riding, became red rot. Mr. Ward thinking the machine was on fire, attempted to get out and was precipitated heavily to the ground and his skull fractured. He was later taken to a Tarboro Hospital and then brought here for an operation in hope of saving his life. He lingered for several days, never regaining consciousness.

The most appalling accident of the week, however, occurred Thursday near Hacclesfield when Stella Abram, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Abrams, was killed outright, and the father and mother sustained painful injuries, the mother probably fatally, while a son appears to be paralyzed in his lower limbs from his hips down and may die as the result, while still another child was painfully hurt.

HUGHES "BET" WAS THERE BUT WHERE WAS THE COIN?

Kinston Sports Were "Game"; But the "Fresh" Guy Backed Down.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 5.—When a former Kinstonian arrived here from the North a day or two ago and circulated a report that he was carrying a certified check for $3,000, to be placed at odds of five to three against Wilson money, he did not greatly impress the local sports. Small fry immediately got busy pooling to take the bet. The check, the visitor said, came from a New York source. The sports of the $10, $25 and $50 class were assembling quite a bit of change when three businessmen, a wholesaler, a tobacconist and a cotton dealer, with combined assets of a quarter million dollars, broke up the fun. They pinned the fellow with the alleged check down to produce the paper. He declared that the time he was allowed to retain the check had expired. A telegram was forwarded to an address in the Woolworth building from which the money was supposed to have come, but no reply was had. The check was never exhibited, although the visitor was offered a neat little sum to produce it, after he had said that he still carried it in his pocket.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1916.

Hurrah for Wilson!

The date in candidate is set for tomorrow.

Win with Woodrow Wilson, whirlwind winner.

Mobilize yourself for Wilson and North Carolina tomorrow.

Go to the polls tomorrow and take a hand in the Wilson cyclone.

Don't put your foot in it when you put your vote in the ballot box tomorrow.

It certainly does look like the Right is going to triumph tomorrow in spite of all the powers of Evil.

At the election tomorrow you will have a chance to rock the boat but don't. Look who's in it! You are in it and all of us are in it with you.

If the young men knew as much about Shakespeare's plays as they do about those of Ty Cobb, it would be to the advantage of the young men.

The American people will be on trial tomorrow. Is it too much to say that their capacity and fitness for choosing the best government for themselves will be tested?

We know how the special interests will vote, but the question is whether the great rank and file and mass of the American people will vote for themselves or against themselves.

Of course, the New York Herald was not expected to "predict" the election of the candidate it has been fighting, but the fact that it does "forecast" his election in giving the results of its straw poll inspires Democrats and spreads consternation among the Republicans.

The poor old enemy dropped his chin yesterday. The New York Herald is for Hughes but its Wilson forecast made them all sick. They hate the signs of the times. Everybody may as well get on the bandwagon and take a Democratic joy ride to another triumph for the people.

In the same way that the New York Herald of Sunday morning forecasted the election of Wilson tomorrow, it also forecasted the election of Wilson four years ago, Taft eight years, Roosevelt 12 years ago and McKinley 16 years ago. However, we admit that it is possible for the Herald's forecast to miscarry some time. Yes.

"Anything to beat Wilson," you remember. That includes false registration of imported negroes. It also includes stealing the election. It may include springing the biggest lie of the campaign at the last hour, when it is too late to prove the falsity of it. Democrats should be on their guard from now until the ballots are counted.

Tomorrow is the day on which Hughes depends to "put the South out of the saddle." Will men born and living in the South help him? Are you a leather puller or a saddle sport? We promised to be on hand and see 'em when they think they can monkey with any saddle that Dixie is in. Fancy a leather puller having the serve to sing "Dixie"! Booh! !

The Republicans have been trying to scarce everybody into believing that the peglegs of Europe will put American industry on the bum after the war in Europe, yet already the steel manufacturers are enlarging their capacity and expect a greater business than ever. Many new cotton mills are being erected in the South, while in North Carolina it is almost a daily announcement that a new mill is to be erected or an old one is being enlarged. The calamity howlers are taken for a big joke. They are not scaring anybody but a lot of ignorant voters. That is all they aim to do.

BE SERIOUS WITH YOUR VOTE

White men in North Carolina say the Republican party is no longer tainted with negroism, but if that be true it is not due to the Republican party. Democratic election laws for the purification of the ballot did the work, while the Republicans kicked like a stockyard steer going to the slaughter. They have attacked these laws in every state and in every court in the land. Only recently they succeeded in getting a decision in the Supreme Court of the United States, knocking out Oklahoma's White Supremacy law. In that state, as usual, the colored voters are lined up with the Republicans for a stiff fight tomorrow.

Even in South Carolina, where the white man controls and educates the colored men so that he is enabled to register under the educational clause of the suffrage law of that state, the warning has been issued that 15,000 negroes are registered and that they will support a sneak movement headed by Cole Blease for governor against Governor Manning, the regular Democratic nominee. The Democrats in South Carolina are divided into two bitter factions, and there is such a strong insurgent situation that the Columbia State warns white voters against another menace from the negro vote.

Thousands of intelligent colored men can quality as voters in all Southern states, including North Carolina, where there has been a large colored registration. They make a mistake, of course, in aligning themselves with every element that threatens good government where they live and expect to have to live, and it is thus that they keep the racial question to the front as a problem, the settlement of which always reacts to the disadvantage of the colored man.

North Carolinians are intelligent enough to know that the Republicans talk "white" but that they will welcome and will get practically every negro vote that will be cast in North Carolina tomorrow. Nevertheless, there are North Carolinians, young men especialy, who for some reason or other are obsessed of the idea of voting for Hughes. They will be in a small minority among their fellow Carolinians, as a matter of course, for the average Tar Heel citizen knows that his first duty to his State is to keep it out of the hands of the Republican party, State or National.

The Republicans have objected to the cry of negro in this campaign and really it is a pity that racial matters have to be lugged into our politics, but North Carolina's bitter experience at the hands of Republicanism and fusion forces serious minded North Carolinians to take warning from a past that is actually horrid to contemplate. No man need fool himself into a fancied state of security, for it is a problem that is growing instead of lessening, by reason of the fact that education is enlarging the opportunities of colored men and they naturally believe, whether they are mistaken or not, that their loyalty is due to the Republican party. Perhaps that is so, but it is all the more reason that, if North Carolinians wish to place their government in safe hands and keep it there, they will have to be careful how they vote. Some have rued their mistake in the past and there are others who ought to know enough not to take chances on rueling what they do at the ballot box contrary to the best intereats of the State and the civilization that North Carolinians have twice wrested from a party that never has merited trust from men who think of North Carolina first.

There are fewer reasons than ever why white men in North Carolina should divide in this election, for a patriotic American owes re-election to President Wilson for his constructive administration and especially for the national policy that has kept this country at peace. We don't know of anybody who wants to go to war, therefore no one should vote for any reason against peace or the policy that has maintained it. After all, it is due to peace, it matters not how it was secured, that this country has been enabled to carry on its affairs and take advantage of peace in order to enjoy prosperous conditions such as prevail. War for us would have meant none of the prosperous conditions now prevailing, and even though we buy at high prices we are also selling at high prices as well.

It does not take the prescience of a prophet to say that if by any mistake this country may make in tomorrow's election, there are strong possibilities that this country will not remain at peace. There is ever the possibility of war, even at best, but if we were to go to war at this time, it would be the costliest war that this country ever had. It would be war at the highest prices now prevailing, with more increased prices on top of those we now have to pay. A million or two of men withdrawn from support of their families and from the fields, factories and business of this country would lessen production as a matter of course. Besides that, they would have to be fed and clothed at the expense of those who remain and nobody but a fool can doubt that prices and taxes would soar away above those of today.

This is one of the strong reasons why we should have enough sense to "let well enough alone", and it is the very reason that the whole American Republic seems on the eve of a landslide for Wilson. It is the gospel truth that there is not a single justifiable reason why any man should vote against Wilson, but the reasons are as powerful as they are grave why Wilson should be overwhelmingly re-elected.

Voters cannot afford to bother with trivial excuses and flimsy pretexts in a crisis like this, for our common sense and safety dictate that this is no time to play with fire.

We can't afford it! We can't take the chances! If we have not been disposed to be wise during this campaign, we had better wise up today and vote for Wilson and safety tomorrow. There are two kinds of safety involved in it for North Carolinians.

WHOSE GAME ARE WE UP AGAINST?

No citizen, Republican or Democrat, can afford to throw his vote away tomorrow for some of the rediculous reasons and lame excuses bandied about during the past few days.

As the old time orator would say, this is a day big with the fate of the nation. We may look very lightly upon our paper ballot tomorrow, but our responsibilities as citizens are too great for us to wade up to the ballot box and cast a vote that may throw all our fat in the fire.

We ought to vote with fear and trembling for America. That is our bounden duty. We ought not to vote for such a selfish reason as a tariff for our temporal interest, as for such a silly reason as high prices caused by war or by whatever we may think is the cause. We cannot afford to vote because this or that was done or was not done to Mexico or to Germany or to Great Britain or to some of our individual or corporate interests, but we ought to lay our hands upon our hearts and stand upon our manhood and vote for the safety of America and the security of the American people, our own along with that of every man, woman and child in America.

Perhaps we cannot persuade ourselves to see any danger ahead, but we don't have to see any if Wilson is re-elected. If Hughes is elected we don't know what we may soon see ahead. We may not see anything at all, but we don't have to take chances on it at all when we vote for Wilson. Perhaps Jurge Hughes would be the "pussyfooter and feather duster" that Roosevelt said he was previous to the Chicago convention, but we do know, however, that Roosevelt, the fire eater and jingoist, is back of Hughes and that he will see to it that his man Hughes will not dare to be a mollycoddle when Jove is on the job to furnish the tnunder and lightning for some kind of a wild and wooly ing for some kind of a wild and wooly policy different from that of Wilson, the wise.

Oh, perhaps, Judge Hughes would quietly settle down in the White House and let the four winds of the earth blow through his whiskers, but there is no reason to perhaps anything, for Teddy will be on hand with the teeth to eat up any mollycoddle that purposes to sit around the White House and finger with his whiskers. Perhaps, indeed, Hughes might do all right if he were left alone to himself, but sure as fate he will be personally accompanied by the Rough Rider, lion hunter and discoverer of the River of Doubt. In view of the doubt about it, it is safer to let Hughes stay out of the White House where Roosevelt is sure to drop in and prove to be the evil genius of the sanest man subject in the least to the spell of his influence and the glare of his fireworks.

Whether there is going to be any "invisible government" behind Hughes or not, it makes not a particle of difference. Roosevelt will surely be dazzlingly visible and Hughes will be in eclipse unless he performs some great and daring feat in the nature of juggling with dynamite. There is reasonable doubt about what Hughes would do at the institgation of Roosevelt, but it is wise Americans who will give Wilson the benefit of the doubt for the sake of America and her women and her children and her men—the men who are the human stakes for demagogues and jingoes to pit in a game of blood and thunder.

THE HERALD'S FORECAST

The New York Herald does not predict President Wilson's re-election in the final installment of its straw ballot political poll, as published in The Star Sunday, but it does what is equally as gratifying, if not more so, to the supporters of the Democratic standard bearer. It gives the figures which forecast his election. The readers should not fail to distinguish between the words "forecast" and "predict."

While the Herald has been a vigorous opponent of the policies of Mr. Wilson since he has been president and is not supporting him now, it must be conceded that its straw vote canvass, from first to last, appears to have been eminently fair and unbiased. The Star has published each installment but one of the poll, beginning with the first one in September, having been the first North Carolina newspaper to carry this feature in its Sunday editions in the present campaign, and it may be said here that nothing in the Sunday Star the last few weeks has been of more popular interest to the reading public, if we may judge by the keenly manifest evidence we have had.

Regardless of the Herald's attitude toward Mr. Wilson and its political views generally, it enjoys a reputation vouchsafed to no other American newspaper for the reliability of its presidential election forecasts. For twenty years it has been making these straw ballot polls in presidential campaign years and not once within that period has one of its presidential election forecasts miscarried. This accounts for the great interest that those everywhere interested in the political situation take in the Herald's presidential polls and the great importance attached to them. The motive of fairness and the rigidity of the Herald's rule to be reliable and accurate invest that great American paper's forecasts with an authoritativeness that gives them their value.

The Herald's forecast may miscarry in next Tuesday's election, but if so it will be the first time in a score of years. That newspaper plays safe, in that it does not predict the election of either candidate. It merely presents the figures it gathers, together with comprehensive details and illuminating and elucidating comment and explanations, and leaves the reader to take the figures for what they are worth. The election of Wilson is forecasted in the fact that the Herald's poll shows that the President has been steadily gaining for seven weeks while Hughes has been losing, that Wilson overcame the lead that the Republican candidate had in the beginning and passed him in the race, and that the poll closed with the President in the lead by more than 7,000 straw votes, carrying enough states to give him 307 electoral votes, 41 more than the 266 necessary to elect.

DEMOCRACY'S LAST CALL

To the Editor of the Star:

The last lap of the campaign has been reached. The Democratic Executive Committee of New Hanover county, has endeavored by the meager financial means at its command, to give to the country speakers who could explain the issues of the campaign in an intelligent manner. Moreover we feel that these issues have been presented to the people in an educational, and for the most part in a dignified style.

We have done this because of the undercurrent of lethargy prevalent among of us in New Hanover county. We felt that the more important constructive measures resultant of a Democratic administration should be brought to the attention of the people of our county, and then that we would not be voting blindly, but after sound reasoning, and honest conviction.

If we have failed in our task, we apologize to New Hanover Democracy. If any interest has been stirred, and any good results, we want New Hanover county and Wilmington to be the beneficiaries.

We appeal now for the last time in this campaign for every true and loyal Democrat to rally to the old banner we have learned to love so well, and make sacrifices and do all the personal work possible between now and Tuesday night. An opportunity will be open Tuesday for you to first see that your vote will be one that will be counted for Democracy when the polls shall have been closed. Then you can serve further by prompting your neighbor to be really interested.

New Hanover county stands a good chance to win the handsome silk flag offered by the State Democratic Executive Committee. This accomplishment would reflect credit upon our county, and would be a matter of pride forever. Our precedent for party loyalty would be more firmly established, and the entire state would give her acknowledgment of the achievement. Our new registration is highly satisfactory and encouraging, in that the people are intertsted and expect to express their interest by voting.

Will you vote? And will you render some personal service to get others to vote?

C. C. CASHWELL,

FAVORS THE AMENDMENTS

There has been no dicussion on the stump and practically none in the State press regarding the merits of the four amendment to the constitution which are to be submitted to the people at the November election; therefore the merits or demerits of these amndments can only be formed from an individual viewpoint.

With the limited study I have made of these proposed amendments, I am unable to see anything particularly objectionable to them and I am inclined to the opinion that all of them are meritorious; and unless my views should change by further discussion I shall support them all.

Legislation of State-wide importance has not received the discussion and consideration that its importance demands by reason of the volume of local matters coming from the various counties which have improperly absorbed practically all the time that is allotted to a session of the Legislature.

We have enough of Superior Court judges now, but occasionally on account of the sickness of the judge or a member of his family a term of the Superior Court may be delayed or adjourned for the term, and to the annoyance and expense of the public and litigants in court. An emergency judge would save this delay and annoyance, and his salary could be paid out of the salary of the delinquent judge without any extra expense to the State.

As stated above, my views may change after a full discussion of these amendments but at present I favor them. GEO. E. BUTLER.

Clinton, N. C., Aug. 29, 1916.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Maj. Wm. H. Bernard, the veteran journalist, has made a very conservative forecast of next Tuesday's presidential result which gives Wilson 278; Hughes 162 electoral votes, placing 91 votes in the doubtful column. If all of the doubtful votes, including New York and New Jersey, are given Hughes he will still be 25 votes behind Wilson, and if Hughes be given Ohio, which Major Bernard claims for Wilson, still Hughes will be defeated. Our own opinion of the good sense of the people compels us to predict a much larger majority for our great president—if not a regular landslide.—Maxton Scottish Chief.

Erwin A. Holt, of Burlington, a man prominent in the cotton manufacturing world, who has been one of the most earnest of Progressives and who is a personal friend of Colonel Rosevelt, declares that he cannot follow the Colonel into the Republican party in his support of Hughes, and announces that he is giving his support to Woodrow Wilson for President and Thomas W. Bickett for Governor. Mr. Holt shows his sincerity as a Progressive by his action, for he realizes that the only realy progressive candidate for president is Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Holt's influence will increase the Woodrow Wilson vote.—Raleigh News and Observer.

There is already a good paper mill at Hartsville. We wish that it were in Florence, but it seems to us that the best thing that we can do is to link up with some already existing and successful mill and make that our source of supply. We know that the Hartsville mill can make newspaper, because they have done it, and we would like to see them make the contract with the North Carolina publishers, who are going to pool their orders, and the South Carolina publishers, who ought to do the same thing. Wilmington people are talking of a mill there and Georgia people and South Carolina people are talking of a mill near Augusta, but we have a mill already at Hartsville and that is like the bird in the hand. What does Hartsville say?—Florence Times.

William H. Bernard, the Wilmington publisher, makes an estimate on general results and he gives Wilson 278 electoral votes. He gives Hughes 162 and has 91 doubtful. George Harvey makes an estimate and gives Hughes over 300 and other folks make estimates and mix it all up. Looks like each man is simply guessing and we find that in this sort of guessing as in all other the "wish is father to the thought." We use the figures of 1912 and to save us we can't see how Wilson can get enough votes provided—provided mind you, the claim that 85 per cent. of Teddy's men are following him. If they vote for Wilson as great as 30 per cent. then we can see how Wilson will make it. And it appears to us that it will be impossible to get a line on this vote. Some of the Bull Moose are enthusiastic, but for the most part you can't tell what they are thinking about. They are still mad—they don't like the Democrats and they don't like Teddy—and therefore it becomes the most interesting problem of the campaign to decide what they will do. However, to work puzzles has always been man's one delight—and to make guesses on the general result will be a pastime for ages to come. As we have before insisted we are going to tell you all about in the eighth or ninth of November. Then we will hand you down the straight goods.—Greensboro Record.

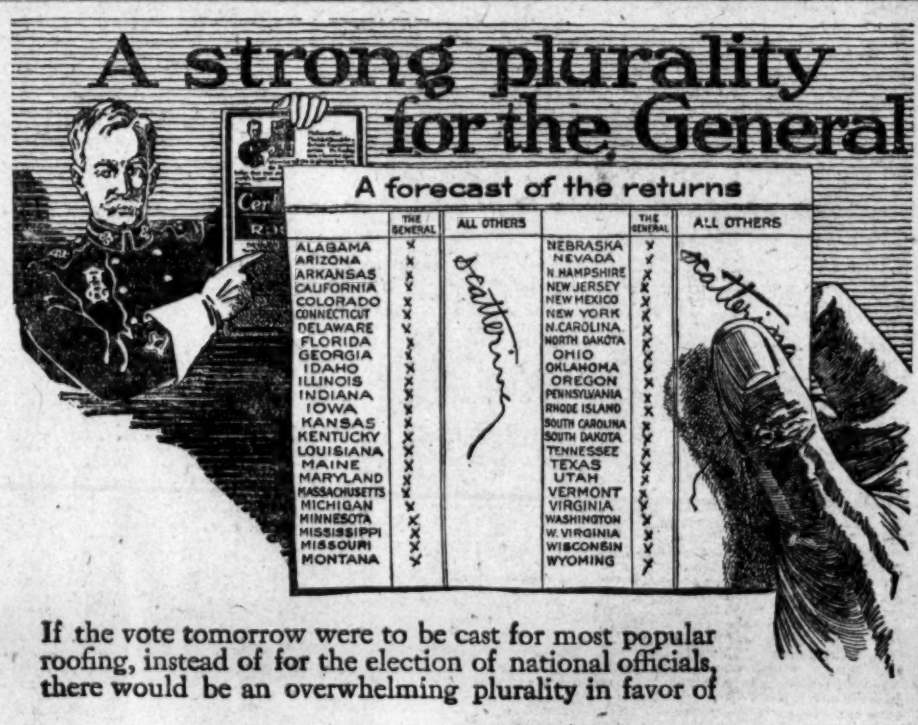
A strong plurality for the General



If the vote tomorrow were to be cast for most popular roofing, instead of for the election of national officials, there would be an overwhelming plurality in favor of

Certain-teed Roofing

This is indicated by the fact that "The General" makes ⅓ of all the asphalt roll roofing made in America. The balance is "scattered" among 39 other manufacturers.

Each year CERTAIN-TEED rolls up a strikingly increasing number of advocates, because this type of roof is coming to be recognized as the most efficient covering for all kinds of buildings, with either flat or pitched roofs.

CERTAIN-TEED is clean and sanitary, costs less to buy, less to lay, less to maintain and less per year of life. It is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply (1, 2 or 3). It actually lasts longer.

The secret of this long life lies in the quality of the roofing felt, and the asphalt saturation.

Roofings do not wear out—their life depends upon the length of time they retain the saturation. CERTAIN-TEED is made of the best quality of roofing felt; and is thoroughly saturated with the General's own blend of soft asphalts, which keeps the inner saturation soft and prevents the drying-out process so destructive to the ordinary roofing.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls; also in slate-surfaced shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roofs, from the largest sky-scraper to the smallest residence or out-building.

CERTAIN-TEED is sold by responsible dealers all over the world, at reasonable prices. Investigate it before you decide on any type of roof.

ROBINSON'S CIRCUS WILL EXHIBIT TODAY

Parade This Morning Will be Big Feature.

Will Give Two Performances Today at Thirteenth and Dock Streets—Unusual Attractions and Special Features.

ROUTE OF PARADE

Following is the route of the parade, which will leave the ground at 10 o'clock this morning, as given to The Morning Star by a representative of the shows last night.

From show grounds at 13th and Dock to Market, Market to Fifth, Fifth to Red Cross, Red Cross to Front, Front to Castle, Castle to Fifth, Fifth to Market, Market to grounds. The parade is expected to pass through the downtown business district about 10:30 a. m.

When the first gray streaks of dawn began to appear in the eastern horizon yesterday morning, and while the great part of the city's inhabitants were still wandering through the enchanted realms of Slumberland, two long rumbling trains bearing some 40 cars of varying types and sizes, crept into the city, bringing the famous John Robinson Circus for its performance at 13th and Dock streets, this afternoon and evening.

Not many hours later, the circus lot was a scene of bustling activity. Tents began to spring up, dogs barked and the shouts of men as they went about their tasks filled the air. Ere long the crowds began to gather, and before noon the majority of the city's masculine population ,at least that of it that had broken their usual record and arose early, were on the scene of activities.

As the afternoon wore on these were supplemented by people of every size, color, age, nationality and sex that the city affords. Every dog in town from the dainty snow white poodles to the giant mastiffs, that could manage on any pretext at all to skip away from home and join in the throng did so, and there is no doubt that yesterday was dog day, even if it was the fifth of November.

Curiously the throngs visited the various tents and looked with admiration on the beautiful collection of horses and other livestock and wild animals that were in view. At last as the shades of the gathering twilight began to fall over the show grounds, a great many of the visitors departed, but there were still some who remained as long as there was any sign of life about the lot.

Today will be the day of days for all the kiddies who can either raise the price of admission, carry water, slip under a convenient tent flap, or gain admission to the land of enchantment in any manner whatsoever.

The kiddies are not by themselves either for there is many a father in Wilmington who is thanking his lucky stars this morning that he has got a little Johnnie or Willie, to furnish an excuse for him to go to the circus. And it is a fact, although no father will admit, that if Johnnie or Willie does not want to go ,dad will coax them to do so by some thrilling tale of the sawdust ring.

Promptly this morning at 10 o'clock, one of the biggest circus parades that has moved over Wilmington's streets in some time will start from the show grounds at 13th and Dock and wind through the principal streets of the city. It should reach the downtown business section about 10:30 this morning.

Heading the parade will be four fair damsels clad in the costume of the middle age cavaliers and armed with silver throated bugles with which to herald their coming to the awaiting crowds. The real feature of the parade will be the chariot drawn by four camels. It is an unusual thing for camels to be harnessed in this manner, it is claimed, and this alone will be worth coming out to see.

Two performances will be given at the grounds this afternoon and evening. The doors will be open at 1 p. m. and 7 p. m. and the performances will begin an hour later. Those desiring to purchase tickets before going to the grounds may do so at Elvington's pharmacy, at Second and Princess streets.

Among the various acts and features to be seen at the performance this afternoon are: The famous Nelson family of acrobats. The Royal Uyeno Japanese troupe, the Robinson herd of performing elephants, the Loretta troupe of aerialists and iron jaw workers, the Equine Statues, Madame Bedeni and her famed dancing horse "Jack Morgan," the Aerial Youngs, Kent's seals and seal band, the DeMarcie monkeys, the riding Connors, the Castellos, the Ortons, the Meers sisters, a duo of clever riders, William Melrose, somersault rider, who turns a complete double somersault upon the back of a running horse and numerous other circus acts of high class. There will be an abundance of clowns with all their nonsensical laugh making devices.

A visit to the John Robinson circus without first viewing the collection of rare and wild beasts in the menagerie, would not be complete, for it is said that the Robinson show has a veritable zoological garden under canvas.

All will be welcome.

As usual the latest available information can be secured by telephoning either No. 51 or 61.

WILL BE FIVE BALLOTS IN ELECTION TOMORROW

Four Constitutional Amendments Will be Voted Upon.

Separate Boxes For National Congressional, State and County Tickets —Particulars As To Preparing Ballots

While the two principal candidates in tomorrow's election are Messrs. Woodrow Wilson and Charles Evans Hughes, no voter will have the opportunity to cast a vote for either of these two distinguished men. On the contrary, their names do not appear on any of the ballots that will be cast nor is there a suggestion, so far as the tickets are concerned, that there are two such men.

This is no news to a majority of American citizens, for those who have been voting in National elections before—and many who have not—know that the President of the United States is elected by electors, who in turn are elected by the people. So it happens that in order to vote for Woodrow Wilson tomorrow it will be necessary to vote for the 12 Democratic electors from North Carolina. In the same way a vote is cast for Thos. R. Marshall for vice president. There will be separate boxes for the National, Congressional, State and County tickets and also one for the Constitutional Amendments.

Voting Simple Matter

It will be a very simple matter to cast a presidential vote tomorrow. There will be a separate ticket for the presidential electors and a separate box in which to vote them. At the head of the Democratic National ticket appear the names of the two Democratic electors at large, Hon. Cameron Morrison and Hon. N. A. Sinclair, and immedately to the right is a large circle. To vote the straight ticket it will only be necessary to mark a cross in this circle. Should anyone want to vote the Republican ticket, he would take the Republican National ballot and mark it the same way.

To vote for a Congressman from this district will also be an easy job. On the Democratic ticket appears the name of H. L. Godwin with a square to the left in which to make a cross The same ticket with the name of Alexander Lamont McCaskill will be voted by the Republicans.

To vote the straight Democratic State ticket, it will only be necessary to place a cross mark in the big circle to the right of the name of Hon. Thomas Walter Bickett, nominee for governor and place it in the State ballot box. To vote the straight Republican State ticket the cross mark will have to be placed in the circle to the right of the name of Frank Armfield Linney, Republican nominee for Governor.

Voter Makes His Choice

The Republican and Democratic tickets for the National, Congressional and State candidates are separate and each elector, if he desires, will be provided by the pollholders with one of each for both parties. When he has made out his tickets as he wishes to vote them, he will return the unused tickets to the pollholders, before placing the others in the ballot boxes.

Should anyone not desire to vote a straight ticket for either party, he can place cross marks to the left of the candidates he desires to vote for without placing a cross in the large circle. In this event provided he wanted to vote for a candidate for each office, it would be necessary for him to use tickets for both parties.

The Constitutional Amendments

While not a great deal has been said about the amendments to be voted on for the Constitution of North Carolina, owing to the great interest in the State and National elections, one of the important ballots to be cast tomorrow will be on these propositions. To vote on these it will only be necessary to use one ballot, Opposite each of the four questions to be voted on are two squares, in one of which appears the word, "yes" and in the other the word, "no." To vote in the affirmative a cross mark must be placed in the "yes" square and to vote in the negative a cross mark must be placed in the "no" square. The first amendment is to provide for restricting local private and special legislation, the second to prevent delays in trials by providing emergency judges, the third is to prevent special charters to corporations by the General Assembly, and the fourth is to prevent special charters to towns, cities and incorporated villages.

To vote for the county offices in New Hanover, the same procedure can be used as for the other tickets. By placing a cross mark in the circle to the right of the word Democrat on the ticket a vote is cast for each man on the ticket.

The county ticket is different from the other tickets in that the candidates of both parties are placed on the same ticket. It happens, however, that the Republicans have no candidates except for State Senator from the Tenth district which includes New Hanover and Brunswick county. A cross in the circle on the Republican side would simply mean a vote for the Republican senatorial candidate. There is an extra column on this ticket with blanks for each office, so that anyone desiring to vote for an independent candidate can do so by writing his name in the proper place.

The Australian ballot system is used in New Hanover and each voter prepares his own ballots without assistance. As it is necessary for the name of each voter to be checked off the registration books, Chairman C. W. Woodward, of the New Hanover Board of Elections, requests that in order that no congestion may occur that those who can do so vote during the lax hours instead of very early in the morning, around the noon hour or late in the afternoon. There are many men who have to work most of the day and cannot get away who will either have to vote before going to work, at the noon hour or after they quit and those which will necessarily cause some crowding at these times. Those who can get away at other times in the day should make it a point not to go to the polls during the crowded periods.

The polls will open at sunrise which will be at 6:35 a. m. and close at sunset which will be at 5:15 p. m.

The Democratic Electors

The Democratic electors on the National ticket in North Carolina are:

Electors At Large—Cameron Morrison, N. A. Sinclair.

OKLAHOMA INDIAN CAR HERE

Is Advertising Coming Sale of Choctaw Chickasaw Indian Lands. Visitors Invited.

The Oklahoma Indian land car, sent out by business men of Southeastern Oklahoma, arrived in Wilmington yesterday. The purpose of the car's visit is to advertise the coming sale of a million acres of Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian lands, which are soon to be sold by the United States government.

According to the director of the car, it is not necessary to live on the land or to make any improvements of any kind, and it can be bought for a few dollars per acre, on easy terms. One-fourth of the purchase price is required down at the time of the land sale and one-fourth each year for three years.

"We do not sell any land on the car" said Mr. Bernard, the car manager "That must and can only be bought direct from the Federal government at the time of the land sale. However, we have maps, geological surveys, plats, blueprints, etc., and we can give all the information necessary in order to put the prospective purchaser right as to the value of the land as an investment. The car is here to give such information."

The car, which is electrically lighted throughout, contains an extensive display of Oklahoma products, both mineral and agricultural, as well as numerous handsome photographic views of Western development.

The car is located at the union station on track No. 7 and will be open to visitors from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. No admission is charged and all information is free. The car will only remain in Wilmington for a few days.

SOLICITOR ABERNETHY CLOSES THE CAMPAIGN AT WALLACE

Has Been Making Strong Addresses In Third Congressional District

Solicitor Charles L. Abernethy, of the New Bern District, was a visitor to Wilmington yesterday, a guest at The Wilmington. Mr. Abernethy, who is one of Democracy's best warhorses when it comes to brass tacks in a political campaign delivered a rousing speech at an open-air meeting held Saturday afternoon at Wallace. In company with several candidates for county offices in that community, he addressed some 300 voters on the issues of the campaign.

In his home district, he has been making the "fur fly" in public debates in which he has been pitted against Maj. Geo. Butler, Republican candidate from Congress from the Third Congressional District, who is running against Hon. Geo. Hood, Democratic nominee for Congress.

Last Friday night Solicitor Abernethy spoke at the Northeast School at a night meeting largely attended by the voters of that community in the interest of the Democratic candidates from that section.

TWO NEGROES BELONGING WITH CIRCUS ARE GUESTS OF CITY

Their Abilities as Crap Shooters Will be Explained in Court.

While the greater part of Wilmington's population was gazing on the sights to be seen at the circus grounds early yesterday afternoon, two colored employes of the circus, Bennie Robinson and John Covington, decided that they would spend a few hours in a nice little crap game and see which of the two would have the privilege of carrying their joint roll during the coming week.

After the game had proceeded quietly for some time on the show grounds, Policeman W. H. Rivenbark and W. H. Kermon strolled on the scene and declared the game ended in the name of the law. They didn't stop at that either, for they extended a cordial invitation to the two negroes to spend their first day in Wilmington as the guests of the city.

Bennie and John were afraid that this would impose some unnecessary hardship on the city, so they politely requested that they be allowed to decline this gracious offer of hospitality. With true Southern politeness, however, Messrs. Rivenbark and Kermon insisted that their invitation be accepted and just to show their guests that they were really in earnest they brough a big covered car out to the grounds for their especial benefit.

Extending their graciousness still further, the officers assured the negroes that they would be permitted to speak this morning at the regular session of the People's Forum (sometimes called the Recorder's court) when it convened this morning.

WARSAW MUSIC CLUB GIVES ITS SECOND PUBLIC CONCERT

Warsaw, N. C., Nov. 5.—The Warsaw Music Club gave its second public concert in the school auditorium Friday evening, and sustained the reputation for efficiency and high class performance established at its first public performance.

The program Friday evening was entirely of vocal selections rendered by the best local talent, and in addition contained several numbers by Mr. Bert Jones, an English singer of note, now living in Wilmington. Mr. Jones' selections were well received by the audience as manifested by hearty applause after each selection, the most pleasing of which were, "The Rosary", "Thera" and "The Gypsy Trail," sung as an encore. The best rendered choruses were Parker's "Mark to the Mandolin," and "Bridal Chorus" from the "Rose Maiden" by Cowen-Alfred. The complete program, every number of which was well chosen, and reflected the care bestowed upon it by the director, Mrs. Clarence Brown, was as follows:

Chorus, "Thine Eyes So Blue and Tender" (Lassen), Solo, "Perfect Day" (Bend) Mr. Jones. Solo "Daisies" (Cowles) Miss Anna Pierce. Chorus, A "Rockin' in de Win' (Neidlinger) b, "Hark to the Mandolin" (Parker) Solo, "The Rosary" (Nevin), Mr. Jones. Duett Serenade (Schubert) Mrs. Clarence Brown and Miss Hammend. Solo "Thera" (Adams), Mr. Jones. Chorus, "Rest Thee On This Messy Pillow, (Smart) Duett, "At Dawning" (Cadman), Mesdames A. O. Moore and C. J. Brown. Solo, "Drum Major" (Newten), Mr. Jones. Chorus, "Bridal Chorus" from the "Rose Maiden" (Cowen—Alfred),

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones, of Wilmington, were given an informal reception by the Music Club at the residence of Mrs. Erle Best after the concert Friday night. A delightful hour was spent, at the close of which refreshments were served.

AGED WOMAN

Run Down and Feeble—Made Strong by Vinol.

So many people in Wilmington and vicinity are in Mrs. Wickersham's condition we ask you to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, and if it fails to benefit we will return your money.

In her eighty-second year Mrs. John Wickersham, of Russellville, Pa., says: "I was in a run-down, feeble condition and had lost flesh. A neighbor asked me to try Vinol, and after taking two bottles my strength returned; I am gaining in flesh, it has built up my health and I am feeling fine for a woman of my age, so I get around and do my housework."

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mrs. Wickersham's case was because it contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a weakened, run-down system and create strength.

Right here in Wilmington we have seen such excellent results from Vinol that it is a pleasure to know it is doing so much good for old people in other parts of the country.

NOTED EVANGELIST WILL LECTURE TOMORROW NIGHT

Dr. George Stuart Will Speak at Boys' Brigade Armory.

"Lop-Sided Folks" will be the subject of a platform lecture at the Boys' Brigade armory tomorrow night by Rev. Dr. George R. Stuart, pastor of the leading Methodist church in Birmingham, Ala. Dr. Stuart is one of the most brilliant lights of the chautauqua platform. For many years he was engaged in evangelistic work in which he was remarkably successful. He is a speaker of great ability.

"George R. Stuart is regarded as one of the most remarkable products of the American pulpit. Like Sam Jnes, with whm Stuart labored in evangelistic work, he moves people to smile and to tears. A man with a mission, he talks of the vital things about which the people are concerned. Having brilliancy of imagination, wealth of thought and expression, a humor overflowing with brightness and a heart big enough to understand and full enough to impart something to every one before whom he speaks, this Southern orator and humorist never fails to please."

IN THICK OF THE FIGHT

New York Papers Reaching City Last Night Eagerly Scanned

That the political campaign is reaching white heat in the doubtful states is evidenced by the New York papers reaching the city last night, for which there was an unusually big demand.

Of course greatest interest attached to the forecast by the New York Herald, a liberal synopsis of which was carried by the Star yesterday morning and which proved quite the most refreshing news Southern Democrats have yet received. The Herald, of course, carried the complete analysis of the straw vote and the various angles of the fight in the several states, were eagerly scanned by local politicians.

Next to the Herald, there was possibly greatest interest in the large page and double-page political advertisements appearing in all the big metropolitan sheets. The Republicans have perhaps invested more largely in printer's ink, but the Democrats have countered quite handsomely and an interesting feature of the advertising for the Democrats is the series turned loose by Mr. Henry Ford at his personal expense. These give Mr. Ford's reasons for supporting the President and will, without a doubt, have great weight, especially with laboring people, all over the United States. Among other things the World carries a full-page cartoon in behalf of the Democracy and with it, one of the strongest political editorials that has yet come out of a New York sanctum.

Oh, yes, New York does big things and they are breaking there on the eve of election with startling rapidity.

DEATH OF MR. SAM CARR

Former Resident of Wilmington Passes at Home at Kingstree, S. C.

He also has a number of relatives living here.

Capt. W. H. Northrop, Sr., his uncle, of this city, was with him when he died. The announcement of his passing will be learned with regret by a wide circle of acquaintances in Wilmington. His wife preceded him to the grave several years ago and there are no children surviving. He has three brothers living as follows: Mr. W. H. Carr, of Kingstree, S. C., Dr. Isaac Carr, of Durham ,and Mr. Clarence Carr.

The funeral will be held at Kingstree, S. C., at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the interment will at that place.

WORKING FOR PACKING HOUSE

Expert Engineers Submit Data for Erecting Plant Here for Carolina Packing Company.

The Carolina Packing Company, which was recently organized in Wilmington for the purpose of erecting a modern packing house in Wilmington, has had several expert engineers to submit data for such an enterprise and it is expected that at an early date plans will be completed for starting work on the plant.

The company still lacks about $25,000 of having sufficient capital with which to begin operations, but it is expected that this will be subscribed for within a short time. This is all that is necessary to get the enterprise going, which all agree would revolutionize this section of the country.

Prompt action is necessary as many farmers have already entered upon stock raising on a large scale, looking forward to the operation of a packing plant in New Hanover county at an early date.

The packing house company has arranged to have a booth at the Wilmington Corn Show, and there will be some one on hand at all times to furnish full and complete information about the enterprise. All are invited to call and learn what such a plant will mean to Wilmington and this entire section.

The officers of the Carolina Packing Company are all well known business men and farmers of this section. They will give their best efforts to see that it is made a success. They are doing this for the good of Wilmington and this great section.

TO COMPLETE AMOUNT TODAY

Wilson Campaign Committee Received Encouragement Yesterday

Although the lists will not be closed until tonight, the committees at work in Wilmington for a five-thousand dollar contribution to the Wilson campaign fund are very hopeful that the full amount will be in hand early today and, if possible, it is hoped to republish Tuesday morning a full list of the Wilmington contributors.

The news from all the states is growing so encouraging that many students of the situation freely predicted yesterday a landslide for Wilson tomorrow and with this encouraging news before them, the local Wilson committees feel that there are many yet in Wilmington who will send their contributions today without solicitation. If there are any such, they may send the amounts to The Star, to Mr. Hugh MacRae, treasurer of the State Finance Committee, or to Chairman W. A. McGirt, of the local Wilson Club. There are now about 600 contributors to the Wilmington Wilson fund and inasmuch as the National committee lays particular stress upon the popularity of the fund, it is believed that Wilmington will have one of the best records in this respect of any community in the entire country.

It is not too late to contribute now and the election returns will have a much keener relish tomorrow night, if the contribution is made before it is too late.

Goes With Baltimore Bank.

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer, says: "C. N. Evans, late of the Richmond Trust and Savings Company, has been made field representative and advertising manager for the Merchants-Merchanics-First National Bank of Baltimore and will make headquarters in that city. This institution is one of the largest in the South, with resources of approximately $38,000,000. Mr. Evans will travel the South and especially the Carolinas and Virginia, where he is so well known. He was formerly and for years cashier of the Merchants and Farmers National Bank of this city and later was cashier of one of the big Wilmington banks. He has a host of friends throughout the State."

TWO BIG FEATURES TOMORROW

Wilmington Corn Show Will Compete ith Nation-Wide Election in Local Interest

Competing for interest locally with the nation-wide election the fourth annual Wilmington Corn Show will open tomorrow morning bright and early and will be in full blast for four days. For weeks hundreds of men and women have been hard at work making preparation for this event and they have succeeded beyond their most optimistic expectations.

Several thousand people are coming to Wilmington this week to see the magnificent exhibits which have been gathered from home and farm for many miles around and they are promised a "real treat." There will be on display the best that can be produced by skilled farmers and the finished products of several score industrial enterprises while the dainty household articles of many kinds will claim the attention of the women.

Twenty thousand square feet of floor space has been covered with these exhibits at the tabernacle on Castle street while two large tents will be crowded with other displays. It will be a collection that will be worthy of attention.

Wednesday morning there will be given the splendid industrial and commercial parade in which will appear a hundred or more beautifully decorated floats. Some surprises are in store for those who have the opportunity to witness this spectacle. Wilmington enterprises are vieing with each other in getting up floats that will present in picturesque manner the things that are grown, manufactured or sold in this city and section.

Today will be a busy one as hundreds of boxes of products to be placed on display will come in to be paced in the big building, which is just now the most active place in the city. Everything will be arranged for the opening tomorrow.

None the Worse for Ducking.

According to advices received yesterday none of the victims of the capsizing accident off Lumina at Wrightsville Beach Saturday afternoon seem to be any the worse from their experience. Mr. Plott, who was reported as being in a serious condition, says that this was an error and that he was not seriously injured. Mr. Plott says that he helped other members of the party ashore.

COTTON MARKET QUIETER

More Narrow Fluctuations Also Featured On the New Orleans Exchange During the Week.

New Orleans, Nov. 5.—Much quieter markets and narrower fluctuations than have been seen for some time featured the trading in cotton last week. The general tendency to even up led to much liquidation of long contracts and the selling out exerted pressure on the price, especially around the first of the week. Toward the end some short covering helped give the market a steady tone. The net result of the week was a rise of 10 to 14 points the smallest price change in weeks.

Liquidation on the long side was chiefly due to fear of an overbought market and to rumors that leading interests had sold out their long contracts. Liquidation was also stimulated, late in the week by the nearness of the presidential election and by the pending report on ginning. Shorts covered principally because predictions of a rise on the ginning returns.

This week the opening session will probably be tame because Tuesday is a holiday and because of the uncertinty over the results of the election. Opinion seems to be that the ginning report of Wednesday will be bullish, expectations ranging from about 8,500,000 to 9,000,000 bales as the total turned out to October 31. Should the smaller figure be realized it is likely a buying wave of consequence will develop because it would be accepted as confirmation of small crop estimates. Anything over 9,000,000 bales would probably cause a decline.

The general idea seems to be that after Wednesday spot accounts will be the chief influence.

SAYS SATAN ISN'T THE UGLY CHAP HE IS PICTURED TO BE

Seventh Day Adventist Evangelist Holding Revival at Kinston.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 5.—Satan isn't the ugly chap that the popular fancy has him, according to U. D. Pickard, a Seventh Day Adventist evangelist drawing big crowds at revival services in the church on Waters street here. Mr. Pickard in a sermon last night declared that "nowhere in the Bible does it say that the devil has horns and hoves, a barbed tail with a pitchfork in his hand with which to hurl the wicked into a lake of fire." On the contrary, whether he is now or not, there was a time when Satan was "the most beautiful angel in heaven," he said. In fact, it was the beauty and vanity of Satan that made him rebel against heaven, he stated. "For 6,000 years now he has carried on a rebellion in this earth and now he is to go on a vacation." Mr. Pickard quoted Biblical passages accepted by him as proof that when the millenium comes the wicked will remain in their graves for a thousand years, and that during all of that time the devil will languish in lonesomeness on a vacation which should leave him fully rested and in fine form for a second resurrection, at which time he will raise merry—coin and start another revolution. This rebellion will be a fiasco of the comic opera variety and result in the former good little devil and all the wicked ex-mortals being cast into a burning lake, the evangelist declared.

500 WARRANTS ISSUED FOR PERSONS IN WAYNE COUNTY

For Failure to List Poll Tax and Personal Property.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 5.—County Solicitor E. A. Humphrey stated yesterday that 500 warrants had been issued against persons in Goldsboro and Wayne county, for failure to list personal property and poll tax, while additional indictments are being found against such delinquents of all classes as fast as evidence is secured justifying such prosecutions. "I am giving you this information," said Mr. Humphrey, "solely for the purpose of giving those who desire it, the opportunity at this time and before the investigation now being conducted is finally concluded, of listing any personal property that might, through error, have escaped the attention of the tax payer or notice of the tax lister or assessor, and has no application whatsoever to those whose tax returns have been made according to law."

(Special Star Correspondence).

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 5.—Tobacco sold on this market up to the present time this season has totaled 13,164,869 according to a statement issued by E. Y. Speed, secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade, yesterday. Unofficially estimates placed the value of the part of the crop marketed at from a third to two-thirds more than all of the 1915 production.

HOOD EXPECTS TO CARRY ALL COUNTIES EXCEPT SAMPSON

Is Figuring on Majority of at Least 4,000 in Third District.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 5.—Congressman George E. Hood, after having canvassed the entire Third congressional district, has returned home. He will close the campaign at Pikeville on Monday night.

Mr. Hood stated that he was entirely satisfied with the situation and that he would carry every county with the exception of Sampson, and Major Butler's majority in that county will be reduced at least five hundred. He believes his majority will be 4,000 or more. He stated that everywhere he has been he was greeted with large and enthusiastic crowds and that the Democracy of this district is thoroughly organized.

NUMEROUS NEW MAXIMUMS

Stocks Last Week Were Fairly Active. Speculative Issues and Low-Priced Rails to the Fore.

New York, Nov. 5.—The most obvious features of last week's fairly active market was the preponderance of professional operations, public interest being held in abeyance largely because of the political situation. Speculative specialties and low grade rails were again to the fore, a great variety of issues making substantial gains.

There were numerous new maximums, including those made by United States Steel and Utah Copper. As for copper and allied metals, dealers today quoted another advance for higher grade copper to be delivered in the first quarter of 1917.

Investment issues were steady to firm, but the relative heaviness of international bonds created some irregularity in other parts of that list. Another Russian loan or credit of $50,000,000 unsupported by another collateral has been consummated, making a total of something like $2,000,000,000 loaned by American financial interests, and investors to foreign countries, exclusive of South America, since the outbreak of the war.

Bond imports, which have arisen to an unwieldly total, probably will cease for a time, in accordance with the desire of leading bankers, who regard a further inflow as menacing to the stability of existing conditions.

MRS. R. B. WATSON DEAD

Well-Known Fayetteville Lady Passes Away, Age 88.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Fayetteville, N. C., Nov. 5.—Mrs. R. B. Watson, one of the oldest inhabitants of Fayetteville and the eldest member of the First Baptist church of this city, died at 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank L. Hightower, on Ramsay street. Mrs. Watson was born in October, 1828, and was therefore entering on her 88th year. Her entire life was spent in this community. Her existence was a rarely quiet and peaceful one, marked by good works and performance of duty. She held the high esteem of all the older residents of the city and as many of the younger generation as knew her. Mrs. Watson had for 70 years been a faithful and consistent member of the First Baptist church. She will be buried from that church Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. She was the mother of six children: A. H. Watson, C. M. Watson and Mrs. F. L. Hightower, of this city; Mrs. M. A. Barker, of St. Paul; Miss Mary E. Watson, of Battle Ground, Guilford county, and Mrs. D. P. Williams, of Hopewell, Va.

HOG BREAKS QUART BOTTLE OF "REPUBLICAN" WHISKEY

(Special Star Correspondence).

Warsaw, Nov. 5.—Saturday morning a large hog in a crate and a quart of whiskey addressed to a prominent Sampson county Republican, were in close proximity to each other on the station platform here. Whether the olfactory nerves of the hog distinguished the odor of the Republican whiskey and liked it, or whether he was simply of an enquiring disposition, is not known; but the fact remains that he was so attracted to that special package that he made a great effort to get into it, but only succeeded in roofing it off the platform, when the bottle broke, and the contents, like much else that is Republican, went to waste. One thirsty Republican in Clinton is likewise without his quart.

INAUGURAL CEREMONY SET FOR FEBRUARY 22

Prof. Riddick to be Formally Made A. & M. President.

Many of the Alumni and Friends of the College Epected to Attend. Elaborate Arrangements are Under Way.

(Special Star Correspondence).

West Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 5.—February 22nd was set as the date for the inauguration of Prof. W. C. Riddick, as president of the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, at a meeting of the faculty committee on arrangements, held for a discussion of a tentative programme and speakers for the occasion.

One of the principal reasons for selecting this date was that being a holiday, more of the alumni and friends of the college would be able to leave their business and come back and pay their respects to the new executive.

The board of trustees has made a suitable appropriation to make the occasion an elaborate one and has appointed a committee on arrangements, compose dof Prof. W. A. Withers, chairman; Prof. J. W. Harrelson and Prof. C. L. Newman. Alumni secretary, Buxton White, was selected as as its secretary.

While the various speakers were not fully decided upon or all details mapped out, it is assured that there will be a distinguished delegation of technical and academic men to represent the institutions and societies of learning throughout the country, making this an occasion of much dignity. Capt. H. H. Broadhust, commandant of the cadet corps, was named as chief marshal and will be in charge of arrangements for the academic procession and the seating at the exercises.

This will be the first inaugural ceremony that has ever been given a president of A. & M. College, and the committee expects to make the event one of the biggest and most auspicious in the history of the institution. Further plans will be announced from time to time as they are decided upon.

FIRST COMMUNITY FAIR

Ormondsville, In Greene County, Has Many Visitors

(Special Star Correspondence)

Ormondsville, N. C., Nov. 5.—This little Greene county town Friday pulled off its first community fair. The attendance was unexpectedly large, and the exhibits were excellent all the way through. Mayor J. Paul Frizzelle, of Snow Hill, County Superintendent of Schools J. E. Debnam, Lenoir County Farm Demonstration Agent O. F. McCrary and others made addresses. Mr. Frizzelle compared conditions in the section ten years ago and now, calling attentiin to the fact aming others that the State's corn production has increased from an average of 13 bushels to 20 bushels per acre at that time. Mr. Debman received the progress of Greene county's schools. Greene claims to have made greater headway in the matter of education than any other county in the South. Mr. McCrary spoke on the relation of the parent to the pig, corn and canning club work of the younger yeneration. A new feature for such an event was a parade, quite long and well gotten up. A corn club youngster in the commnnity produced more than 100 bushels on an acre, a very good record for this year. The fair was the biggest event of any character ever held in the town.

The membership numbers forty-four, and is the largest organization of its kind in college. This number includes eight Seniors, five Juniors, ten sophomores, and twenty-one freshmen.

For the purpose of getting in closer touch with the students of Buies Creek Academy the students in Wake Forest from that institution have organized a Buie's Creek Club with a membership of forty-two, and elected the following officers:

President C. H. Stevans, of Wilson Mill; vice-president, D. H. Perry, of Wakefield; secretary, R. N. Childress, of Raleigh; treasurer, J. G. Booe, of Cana. The club will formulate plans whereby a greater enthusiasm for Wake Forest College may be created at Buie's Creek.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4. — Proposals that for the immediate relief of the country-wide railroad car shortage the Interstate Commerce Commission call a conference of the executive heads of the railways were communicated late today to Commissioner McChord, who has been presiding over the informal inquiry held here.

GERMAN U-BOAT DESTROYS A SMALL BRITISH CRUISER

Berlin, Nov. (via London)—An announcement made today by the German naval staff says:

"One of our submarines destroyed on October 23 a small English cruiser of old construction with two funnels. The scene of the engagement was off the west coast of Ireland."

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 5.—Election of the Democratic state and congressional nominees next Tuesday is generally conceded and interest here centers largely on the proposal to substitute local option for state-wide prohibition, which became effective last January.

POSSE CLASHES WITH INDUSTRIAL WORKERS AND FIVE ARE KILLED

Verona's party who attempted to land there.

Warning that there would be trouble in Everett today was issued at the Seattle headquarters of the Industrial Workers of the World last night, after a meeting of members. A call for members to join the expdition to Everett was issued and speakers declared that they would tolerate no interference from the Everett authorities.

A circular issued for distribution in Everett read:

"Citizens of Everett: Attention! There will be a meeting of the Industrial Workers of the World, November 5, at Hewett and Wetmore avenues. Come and help maintain your own and our national privileges.

(Signed) "COMMITTEE."

"If the police, sheriff and citizens will not maintain order in Everett they had better call out the militia," said one speaker at last night's meeting. "In any event, we will go there and put Everett i norder."

Police and Militia on Duty.

When the Verona pulled into her slip the warf was surrounded by policemen, some armed with shot guns and others with drawn pistols, and 30 National Guardsmen. All the guardsmen stood with fixed bayonets and their belts filled with ball cartridges.

As the steamer drew along side the pier, Captain of Police D. F. Willard shouted to Captain Wiman, of the Verona, not to land. Several members of the Industrial Workers of the World aboard the boat started to clamor over the steamer's rail, but policemen halted them at the point of revolvers. One gang plank was lowered and under supervision of the police, the wounded were taken off the boat first, assisted by their uninjured comrades, and were removed to the city hospital. The four dead were taken to the morgue. The Verona's dead were found laid out on the floor of the cabin and the wounded were stretched out on seats along the walls or lying on the floor.

As the men marched down the gang plank under cover of police shot guns and pistols, they were searched for fire arms but no weapons were found. Several pistols were found hidden in the cabin of the boat. All of the uninjured men were loaded into automobiles under heavy police guard and taken to the city jail, where they were locked up.

THREE PARTIES WAGING HARD FIGHT IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., November 5. — As the Democratic and Republican vice-presidential candidates and the prohibition presidential nominee are all from Indiana, an unusually hot fight is being made by all three parties in this state and there was no let up in the activity at the various headquarters today. Bernard Kirby, Democratic state chairman, has made no prediction as to the outcome next Tuesday, but other members of that party are confident of electing the state and national ticket. Republican State Chairman Hayes said his party would carry the state "by a large plurality."

EXPLORED ASIAN DESERTS

Traveler Discovers Copper Coins and Wooden Books on Trade Routes.

(London Express).

Sir Aurel Stein, who has just returned to England on the conclusion of 2 1-2 years' journey through Central Asia undertaken by order of the government of India, made some fascinating discoveries in Eastern Turkestan, Westernmost China, the Pamirs, Russian Turkestan and along the Perso-Afghan border.

After crossing into Chinese Turkestan Sir Aurel Stein made his way as rapidly as possible toward the desert around the dried-up Lop Nor, visiting on his way a sand buried old site in the Takiamakan desert.

Among his discoveries at this desert site was a large ancient orchard still showing with uncanny clearness the elaborate arrangement of fruit trees and vines carried over trellis, all dead. The settlement had been abandoned close on 1,700 years ago, and the river which once carried water to it now loses itself in the sand.

Perhaps his most important discovery was the tracing of the ancient route of the Chinese, and the numerous ruins along that part of it which lay through a dried-up delta. It was by this route that the Chinese, in the second century after Christ, conveyed all their silk to Central Asia and the far off Mediterranean. The numerous pieces of exquisite Chinese silks and brocades found in the cemeteries will open up a new chapter in the history of textile art.

In that part of the desert which was waterless in ancient times for a distance of some 150 miles he was able with accuracy to track the route of the ancient caravans by finds of coins and other small objects accidentally dropped. In one place the direction in which a convoy had moved was clearly marked by hundreds of copper coins strewing the salt encrusted ground, which had remained untouched for at least 1,600 years.

MAN'S DECREASING HEIGHT.

When Adam and Eve Walked Around They Were Tall as Trees.

(From Indianapolis News.)

In recent years anatomists have shown in a practical way that the height of a man or woman can be increased to a considerable extent by appliances for stretching. These extensions, however, have only been of inches or fractions of an inch, and giants have not been, nor are they likely to be, developed by artificial means. It was a French savant, named Henrion, who, 200 years ago, gave to the world authoritative statements as to the height of Adam and Eve. He said that the father of the race was 123 feet 9 inch high and Eve 118 feet 9 inches. He noted that from the creation of these enlarged editions of humanity, degeneration had been rapid; that Noah was only 27, Abraham only 20, and Moses but 13 feet in height. According to this French authority, if the Christian dispensation had not arrested this decrease, man by this time—200 years ago—would have been a mere microscopic object, and we may conclude that by our time he would not have been at all. M. Henrion did not give any explanation as to how he arrived at his estimate of the height of these ancients. Perhaps the most gigantic story on record is that concerning an immense skeleton, said to have been in Sicily, which measured 300 feet in length. This story, however, carries its own refutation, as it is said that found beside this giant was his walking stick, which was 30 feet long and as thick and a telegraph pole. A clever calculator made the estimate that a walking stick only 30 feet in length for a man who measured 300 feet would be as ridiculous as one of seven inches for a man of ordinary stature.

NINETY-ONE PERISHED IN COLLISION OF TWO SHIPS

Belfast, Nov. 5.—The death list, as a result of the disaster to the steamers Connemara and Retriever Thursday night is now set at 91. Eighty-two persons lost their lives on the Connemara and nine on the Retriever. Sixty-nine bodies have been recovered. The collision occurred at 8:30 o'clock in the evening, a mile off the coast. The sole survivor of the Retriever, James Boyle, was in the water half an hour clinging to an overturned boat which washed ashore.

DR. GEORGE R. STUART COMING.

Dr. Stuart will deliver a platform lecture next Tuesday night at the Boys' Brigade Armory, on "Lop-Sided Folks," and it is expected that he will draw a good crowd in spite of the fact that it will be election night. The lecture will commence at eight o'clock. This will be a good way to pass time while waiting.

It is hardly necessary to say much about Dr. Stuart, as he is well known all over the country. At present he is pastor of the leading Methodist church in Birmingham, Ala. He comes highly recommended by such men as Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, Len. G. Broughton and Sam. P. Jones. A number of years ago he was here with Sam. Jones, conducting a meeting.

The Fifth Avenue Epworth League is selling tickets to the lecture at fifty cents each.
